

BILL ON SHOALS PASSES SENATE, GOES TO HOUSE

Supporters of Bill Hope To Get It Into Conference Permitting Final Vote Before March 4.

DEMOCRAT-REGULAR COALITION WINS OUT

After weeks of Republican Whip To Substitute His Amendment Fails by 43-to-38 Vote.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, January 14.—With final approval of the Underwood private leasing bill, 50 to 30, the senate today got itself out of the parliamentary tangle into which it became enmeshed yesterday and so washed its hands of the whole Muscle Shoals problem, temporarily, at least.

The measure, after a tempestuous six weeks' voyage in the senate, now goes to the house, which, at the last session, passed a bill accepting the offer of Henry Ford, since withdrawn. The procedure there remains to be determined. The bill either can be sent direct to conference or can be referred to the military committee. Friends of the measure are making efforts to have it sent to conference between the two houses with a view to obtaining final congressional action before this session expires on March 4, while opponents are laying their lines to have it referred to a committee in the hope that there will be no final action by this congress.

Action Followed Conference. Senate approval of the Underwood measure was brought about by a coalition of administration republicans and a group of democrats. It came after Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the majority leader, had conferred with President Coolidge at the white house.

Immediately after the senate met, the Underwood bill was accepted for the second time, 46 to 33, as a substitute for the Norris government operation plan, which had been approved yesterday, 40 to 39, over the Jones proposal to refer the problem to a commission.

With the Underwood measure back before the senate, Senator Jones, the republican whip, reoffered his proposal, which displaced the Underwood bill yesterday, but it was rejected, 43 to 38, ten of the administration republicans who supported it yesterday deserting it today for the Underwood plan.

McKellar Offers Substitute. Although Senator Norris previously had announced he would not again offer his bill to the senate, opponents of the Alabama senator's leasing bill did not give up the fight. Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, offered a substitute proposing to refer the Muscle Shoals question to President Coolidge for settlement without congressional restriction. It was voted down, 52 to 29.

With this measure out of the way, the question came upon the final passage of the Underwood bill and this prevailed after Senator Norris had made a last plea to the senate to withhold its approval.

Opposing the Underwood bill on the final vote were 13 republicans from western states; 16 democrats, mostly from southern and western states, and one farmer-labor. Thirty-four republicans, 14 of them from western states, and 16 democrats, three of them from western states, voted for the bill.

Provision For Lease. The Underwood bill, as finally approved, would provide for the leasing of the gigantic government power and nitrate plant on the Tennessee river to a private corporation for not more than 50 years, with an added provision for purchase at the end of that period.

OPPORTUNITY'S KNOCK

Different

The cause for much of the mediocrity in the world is that most men are afraid to think or do anything different from the standard thoughts and methods of other people. No one can hold to old ways and yet grasp new opportunities. A man has to decide what he's going to do with his abilities—pattern them after a set form or give them the stamp of a new personality. Repression results in standing still. Expression means advancement into fresh fields of thought and activity. Find out what you have to give to the world and then give it—regardless of opinion, praise or blame.

Klansman On Jury Results In Voiding 13 Cases In Athens

BISHOP PUT HALO ON MATERIALISM SAYS PROSECUTOR

Church Counsellor Accuses Alleged Heretic Prelate of Creating Holy Trinity of Earthly Things

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Cleveland, January 14.—The doctrine of the Protestant Episcopal church was contrasted with the alleged heretic teachings of Bishop William Montgomery Brown today in the concluding argument of Charles L. Dibble, church advocate, before the church's board of review. This completed the case of the "prosecution." Tomorrow Joseph W. Shantz, chief counsel for the defense, will finish his argument, thus clearing the way for the finding of the appeal body and the possible sentencing of Bishop Brown.

Bishop Brown's ideas are no better, in last analysis, than the fetish worship of the jingles, Mr. Dibble said. Everything is related to the material world and nothing to the spiritual, he averred, and illustrated by saying:

No Knowledge of Spirit. "When we spoke in our brief of the life of the spirit after death, his counsel rejoined that we must have been referring to ectoplasm, or something of that sort. They could not comprehend the spiritual as an objective reality, for the spiritual is unknown to them."

Mr. Dibble declared that a fetish worshiper who bowed to one stone would be no better off if he bowed to a million, or to a universe full of stones. "If recourse is had to Bishop Brown's idea of a trinity of matter, force and motion for a conception of deity, he argued, it could be found where a stone is buried, with force through the air."

Quoted From Brown's Book. He quoted from the book "Communism and Christianity" to show that the defendant had himself called his belief in matter "atheistic rationalism."

"Are you reading from the book in order to show that Bishop Brown utters doctrines contrary to those held by this church?" queried Bishop William Leonard, head of the court.

"I am," replied Mr. Dibble, "and also to show that he would not, as his counsel hinted yesterday, preserve God in the hearts of men for he would burden men's minds with a trinity in which matter is the Father, force the Son, and law the Holy Spirit. He gives us these material things and says:

"That's all there is; there isn't any more."

"If that be religion, I want none of it."

Rehearses Four Transgressions.

Mr. Dibble maintained that the record of the trial court showed that the defendant had been given a detailed claim that he had contravened church doctrine by four denials—at the existence of God, the doctrine of the Trinity, the earthly existence of Christ and "the divinity of Christ and His present intercession for us."

He declared that the church had, and rightly, formulated its doctrines in the creeds, catechisms and other parts of the prayer book and had not

Effort To Be Made Today To Reindict Men Accused by Special Investigator of Secret Order.

TACTICS OF KLANSMEN ROUNDLY CONDEMNED

Object of Investigation Was To 'Get' Prominent Anti-Klansman, According to Street Gossip.

BY RALPH T. JONES, Staff Correspondent. Athens, Ga., January 14.—(Special.)—After cases against 13 Athens citizens, on charges of liquor law violations and gambling, brought as a result of evidence submitted to the grand jury by the local Ku Klux Klan, had been moved in Judge Blanton Fortson's court this morning, it was announced that a special session of the grand jury will be held Thursday morning in an effort to reindict the 13 defendants.

The cases were nolle prossed after both prosecution and defense had agreed that there was at least one, and possibly more, members of the grand jury which brought the indictments who were members of the Klan, and after Judge Fortson had ruled that, inasmuch as the evidence on which the cases were brought was gathered at the expense of the Klan, all members paying their dues to that organization were parties to the prosecution and therefore disqualified as jurors.

Second Time Case Was Nolle.

This was the second time the cases had been nolle prossed, both times on the same grounds. The first indictments were brought by a grand jury of which three members admittedly were Klansmen. The prosecutor had new indictments brought after purging the jury of the three, but the defense claimed in a special plea made when the first case was called Wednesday that there was still at least one Klansman on the jury. Judge Fortson, however, ruled against him, with the result that an attempt to secure indictments a third time will be made tomorrow.

Attorney Lamar C. Ricker, chief counsel for the defense, brought out in his argument to quash the indictment that the Klan spent $2,300 in its so-called "crusade" to secure evidence of gambling in Athens. He also stated that he could introduce witnesses to prove that a Klansman was still on the grand jury but pointed out that the first and best evidence on this point would be the official roster of Klan membership in Clarke county, which had been ordered under a subpoena, to be produced in court. This, however, was not asked for, as the attorney of the police on the point making it unnecessary. However, it is expected that, if the defendants are reindicted, an effort will be made at the trial.

SCHOOL MERGER MEETING TODAY

Committee of 21, Board of Education and Private Citizens Will Consider Steps to Consolidation.

The committee appointed last week to consider proper steps for merging the school systems of Atlanta, Fulton county, East Point and College Park will hold its first meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the city hall, it was announced Wednesday by John T. Hancock, president of the board of education, who called the meeting at the request of Herbert Porter, chairman.

Mr. Porter announced that H. C. Couch, mayor of College Park and Mrs. Baynard Williamson, of College Park, have been added to the committee, bringing the number of members to 21.

Atlanta, College Park, East Point and Hapeville are represented on the committee by their respective mayors and other city officials, while the chairman of the county commissioners represents Fulton county. All boards of education also are represented, and a number of private citizens have been selected from all parts of the affected district.

Merger Is Approved.

At last week's meeting, all officials expressed approval of the merger and of establishment of the proposed metropolitan school district while tentative plans were made to submit the proposition to the public at a referendum to be held late in February.

Members of the committee, at today's meeting, will present the problems of the individual school systems, and every point is expected to be threshed out. Principal difficulties in effecting the merger, it is stated, is the method by which funds for operating expenses and new buildings would be raised; the method to be taken to include that part of Fulton county, now in the Atlanta district

U.S. AND EUROPE ARE BOUND NOW BY GOLD CHAIN

American Participation in Reparations Under Dawes Plan Makes Bond Direct and Binding.

PRODIGAL IS WELCOMED AFTER 5-YEAR ABSENCE

More Aid Seen by European Powers in Making Germany Live Up to Promises to Pay Debts.

BY JOHN O'BRIEN. Paris, January 14.—Europe has bound the United States to close participation in the affairs of the old world with a powerful chain of gold Europe is congratulating herself on this diplomatic feat, whereby the United States finally has become a joint recipient of reparations from Germany.

One after another, the representatives of the great European powers rose in their places at the final meeting of the allied finance ministers' conference Wednesday and felicitated Europe on the occasion of American emergence from the role of spectator to that of an official, active participant in European affairs.

Welcome Prodigious Back.

The significance with which Europe regards the signature of United States representatives to the agreement for distributing the proceeds of the Dawes plan could not escape observation. The various delegates signed the protocol Wednesday morning. The welcome to prodigious America, returned to Europe, began at once.

Finance Minister Clementel said, "that the Dawes plan has brought the United States back, not as spectators, but as participants."

"We shall be helped and not burdened by the new arrangement with the United States," Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, said in referring to the granting of American claims. "After six years, marked by many misunderstandings and divergences, we find the allies and the United States working together."

Gain Moral Support.

Churchill pointed out that the agreement bringing the United States into the Dawes plan was most important because of the great moral support thus gained.

European officialdom considers the official participation of the United States in the Dawes benefits one of the outstanding results of the conference. This re-entry into the European political arena is adequate comfort for the sacrifices the conference demanded from some of the participants.

Europe now hopes that the United States will consider herself bound to aid in forcing Germany to live up to her promises to pay, that is, to enforce the execution of the Dawes plan, if necessary.

Welcomes Our Return.

The politically important Temps editorially welcomes the return of the United States.

"To have closely associated the United States with the reparations problem is of considerable importance. It is the first time in five years that the United States now will use all her influence to oblige Germany to fulfill her obligations."

A few moments before the signatures were to be affixed to the protocol, the American embassy attaché dashed into the conference room. Soon thereafter, the American delegates demanded that

Mutilation of Pretty Dancer Turns All India Into Uproar

RAJAH SUSPECTED OF INSPIRING ATTACK

Bombay, January 14.—While all India continues in an uproar over the cruel attack upon beautiful Mumtaz Begum, lovely nautch dancer and favorite of a maharajah, one of the Pathan tribesmen who mutilated her and murdered her lover, has confessed to his part in the crime. Other arrests are expected.

The girl's stepfather has been thrown in jail for abetting the murder. Mumtaz, the rajah's plaything from the time she was 14 until she was 20 years old, finally wearied of her jeweled cage and deserted the luxury provided by her patron for the love of a common man. The maharajah is suspected of instigating the atrocity.

Like a bruised flower, Mumtaz now lies trembling and terrified in a hospital bed here.

Troops Guard Dancer.

Police guard the wounded dancer to prevent a repetition of attempts to abduct her, which were made Monday night. These led to the murder of her lover and the marring of her beauty. Until Monday night, Mumtaz's fortune was her loveliness. Now her body is marred by a knife wound across her forehead and contusions, but the man for whom she deserted the rich potentate, provided for her during his last hours as he lay dying from the mauling administered by a

ATLANTA-MARIETTA LINE TIE-UP TO CONTINUE TODAY WITH NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

TWO MORE CLUBS PLEDGE SUPPORT IN PISTOL FIGHT

Mystic Kingdom and Women's Club of West End Indorse Constitution's Campaign.

NEW PISTOL ORDINANCE WILL COME UP TODAY

Police Committee Passes New Regulations—Negro Methodist Ministers Promise Assistance.

Sentiment against the pistol is becoming stronger every day all over the state of Georgia, as unmistakably indicated by the volume of expressions from individuals and organizations which are being received daily, all commending the itinerant concealed weapon forever from Atlanta and Georgia.

The press of the state has unanimously come out in supporting the Constitution in its fight on hidden firearms. Many of the newspapers have joined The Constitution in demanding that legislation be written immediately to outlaw the pistol through a state-wide law.

Day's Developments.

Developments during the last 24 hours included the following:

1.—The Mystic Kingdom, George Washington castle No. 1, adopted a resolution commending The Constitution for its fight on pistols and pledged its aid in the fight to outlaw concealed weapons.

2.—A resolution was unanimously adopted by the Women's club of West End, condemning concealed pistols and indorsing and joining the crusade against itinerant firearms launched by The Constitution.

3.—The negro ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church, at regular monthly meeting, praised The Constitution and declared they would stand firmly behind the fight on pistols.

4.—The police committee of city council decided upon a new ruling Wednesday night which establishes a precedent under which policemen will not be allowed to retain any kind of firearms found by them. Chairman E. H. Inman explained that the action was taken merely because a majority of guns given to police officers eventually are sold to some private citizen.

5.—The first attempt to regulate sale of pistols in Atlanta will be taken this afternoon when the ordinance committee of city council will consider an ordinance presented by Councilman John A. White which would impose a heavy penalty for sale of pistols except under a permit granted by general council and approved by the mayor. No opposition is expected.

Mystic Kingdom Acts.

Action on the pistols was taken at a recent banquet of George Washington castle No. 1, of the Mystic Kingdom, which adopted resolutions indorsing the campaign of The Constitution to outlaw the pistol.

Tiling Hurlled at Successor Of Watchman Who Was Slain

MISCREANT MAKES ESCAPE IN COUPE

As C. R. Davis, night watchman for the Patterson Lumber company, Wednesday night sat quietly smoking in the very office where J. L. Arendale, his predecessor, was brutally murdered a few weeks ago, a hard-heaved piece of brick tiling almost as big as the fist of a man, shattered the window before his face and clattered against the opposite wall.

Davis sprang to his feet, startled. With his revolver already drawn he rushed to the sidewalk just in time to catch a fleeting glimpse of a high-powered coupe as it careened around a corner and out of sight.

Turning, he saw two men running toward him, gesticulating in the direction which the car had sped. They were C. L. Malone, of 1150 DeKalb avenue, and W. M. Dacus, of 37 North Mayson street. Both declared that from a distance, as they walked toward the office along the sidewalk, they had seen a man stand for a moment, peer into the window, and then throw something. He then jumped into the waiting machine and was gone.

Though Pearl Booth, negro, is under sentence to die for the murder of Arendale, police are inclined to attach a great deal of significance to the occurrence Wednesday night. It has been the belief of some members of the department that the negro was not the only one implicated in the murder—one of the most brutal the state has known in some time.

Call Officers M. B. Johnson and M. D. Cartright were summoned to the scene by Davis, and a detailed investigation made. Dacus and Malone described the man they had seen as being well dressed. The light from the window cast its reflection upon him, they said, and they were able to see him plainly. He appeared to be about 5 feet, 11 inches in height, they said. His features were those of a young man.

Since the conviction of the Booth woman in Fulton superior court, Fred James, young foreman at the Ford Motor plant, was found lying dead in Lowe's alley, his head split with an axe that lay near his body. Seven negroes were taken into custody the next day on charges of suspicion, and the investigation is yet under way.

Davis told investigating officers Wednesday night he had no personal enemies, so far as he knew, who could have been responsible for throwing the missile. What connection it may have with the slaying of Arendale is being probed carefully by members of the police department, but at a late hour Wednesday night no light had been thrown on the occurrence.

ATLANTA FINANCE BOARD IS ASKED FOR $20,000,000

Total Revenues of City for Year Will Be Little More Than $8,000,000, Officials State.

With a three-day public hearing completed, the finance committee of city council this morning will go into executive session to consider requests for funds from heads of departments of city government, which together with requests for donations by the general public and civic organizations, will total almost $20,000,000. The city's 1925 revenues will be a little more than $8,000,000.

The committee will hold all-day sessions until the 1925 finance sheet is completed. Alderman W. B. Duvall, chairman of the finance committee, stated Wednesday, and it is expected that the sheet will be completed in time to be presented to city council Monday.

However, definite action at that time is considered unlikely, as members of council will require time to study the budget and make whatever changes and alterations are deemed necessary.

No Salary Increases.

Indications are that no salary increases will be recommended by the finance committee, that practically all requests of department heads will be slashed considerably, and that very few, if any, requests made by the public will be granted.

A liberal attitude toward the school department is expected, as one of the most important of city government. The committee already has signified its intention to appropriate $350,000 to repay a loan made last year to meet school payroll and to set aside $101,000 to pay for free textbooks bought last September.

Members of the board of education, headed by President John T. Hancock, W. W. Gaines, chairman of a special budget committee, and Superintendent Willis A. Sutton appeared before the board late Wednesday afternoon asking

SUBMARINE CREW TAKEN FROM BOAT AGROUND ON BAR

Chatham, Mass., January 14.—The crew of the submarine S-19, which was stranded on the outer bar of Orleans harbor early Tuesday morning in a dense fog, was removed to the tug Wandank tonight after efforts to haul the undersea boat from the bar had resulted in a heavy lift to port. Further efforts to move the S-19 will probably be made at high tide early tomorrow, it was said.

C. F. Martin, commander of the submarine S-19, lives in Blackville, S. C. He is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Miller, of 34 Penn avenue, Atlanta.

Martin was graduated from Annapolis in 1914. He was editor of "The Lucky Bag," a senior class publication, at the naval academy. He has served for one and a half years on the S-19.

Before he assumed command of the S-19, Martin was an instructor at the American submarine base at New London, Conn. During the world war, he was engaged in submarine service out of Hawaii.

SERVICE ON LINE TO AWAIT ACTION OF COUNCIL FRIDAY

Marietta Authorities Will Hold Meeting To Decide on Proposal To Ban Jitneys and Buses.

STATE SERVICE BOARD NOT YET ASKED TO AID

Company Abandons Service, Charging "Unfair Bus Competition on Line Paralleling Track."

There is no indication of adjustment before Friday of conditions which early Wednesday morning brought about cessation of interurban street car service between Atlanta and Marietta, and intermediate points, and dismantling of a section of tracks of the Atlanta & Northern railway, a subsidiary of the Georgia Railway & Power company.

This became known Wednesday night with reaffirmation of street car officials that "unfair bus competition on lines paralleling car tracks had forced abandonment of schedules," and announcement by Mayor Gordon Gann, of Marietta, that committees representing the Chamber of Commerce and the Marietta city council would confer with street car leaders Friday morning.

City Council To Meet.

On Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Marietta city council will meet to consider an ordinance which proposes to ban jitneys and busses from entering Marietta, by way of Atlanta avenue or on streets paralleling that thoroughfare for a distance of 2,000 feet. Passage of this ordinance, however, does not necessarily mean resumption of car service, Mayor Gann stating that "no promises of car service resumption has been given." At the offices of the power company here Wednesday night it was said that "this is a matter which remains to be worked out."

Hope on the part of citizens along the line affected by the sudden interruption of car service Wednesday morning that the matter might be adjusted amicably at an early date was indicated in the fact that no formal notice or protest was filed with the public service commission, although members of that body remained about the capital throughout the day.

The demoralization which gripped approximately 1,500 persons Wednesday morning when they appeared at numerous car stops along the line between Marietta and Atlanta to find posted notices of abandonment of interurban service was somewhat relieved later in the day when scores of busses and jitneys were diverted from Atlanta routes to the Marietta line. Holt Gewinner, president of the Georgia Bus association, stated Wednesday night that 20 busses and 40 additional jitneys would be added to the Marietta line today, and that other busses would be placed in service to relieve jitneys as rapidly as possible. Mayor

STONEHAM CALLED THIEF BY LAWYER

New York, January 14.—After many long delays, Charles A. Stoneham, principal owner of the New York Giants and known throughout the country as a sportsman, finally faced the music in the United States district court, Wednesday and heard Victor House, the federal prosecutor, describe his actions as those of a thief.

Stoneham and seven other men, including his brother, Horace, also well known in racing and baseball circles, are on trial charged with conspiring to use the mails to defraud clients of Stoneham's defunct brokerage house. The crash of the firm of E. D. Dier & Co., one of the houses which went down in the general collapse of bucket shops, is involved in the intricate financial tangle which House will try to make clear to the jury.

"Charles A. Stoneham's position was that of a thief," exclaimed House, beginning his remarks to the jury, "and Elmore D. Dier's position was that of a fence for stolen goods." House then said that Stoneham's brokerage firm was in reality a bucket shop and, when the accounts were transferred to Dier's firm, on the dissolution of the Stoneham business, did not have on hand the $2,100,000 worth of securities representing the equity of Stoneham's customers.

House emphasized to the jury that Stoneham in the spring of 1921 should have had securities in his Milwaukee, Chicago and New York offices representing $5,385,000, of which $2,100,000 represented the equity of 3,000 clients. But, the prosecutor shouted, the firm did not have $5,385,000 when it undertook to quit business and transfer accounts to Dier & Co.

The trial gives every appearance of developing into a long and technical one. It is the culmination of three years of investigation and prosecutions of various men.

Stoneham once owned a race track in Havana which he operated in association with John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants. He also is well known as a race horse owner.

"Huh!" remarked Mrs. Grouch, "a railroad crossing watchman says women are better drivers than men." "Why shouldn't they be?" growled her husband, "they've got nobody in the back seat giving them orders." Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mrs. Harry Leffel Coming to Identify 'Mystery Suicide'

Mrs. Harry Leffel, of Indianapolis, wife of a traveling salesman for a Columbus, Ohio, chemical concern, who disappeared recently, will arrive in Atlanta early tonight to try to positively identify the "mystery suicide man," whose body has lain, unnamed, at the Patterson mortuary for the last 60 hours.

The man, after obliterating every visible sign of identification from his wearing apparel, committed suicide in his room at a downtown hotel Monday by slashing his throat with a razor.

Mrs. Leffel forwarded the following telegram to the Patterson mortuary late Wednesday night: "I will arrive in Atlanta at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night to further identify the body. Prepare to ship the body to Springfield, Ohio."

The unexplained tenure of the message indicated that Mrs. Leffel is certain that the man who killed himself here is her husband. Descriptions furnished Indianapolis authorities by Atlanta investigators allied almost identically.

For 24 hours, investigators worked on the theory that the mystery "suicide" was a man named "Lind." St. Louis, as he had registered at the hotel under that name. But it has been absolutely ascertained that the man was not named Lind and that he did not come to Atlanta from St. Louis, but from Indianapolis.

He was traced through marks which he failed to eradicate on two hats and a necktie. These articles of wearing apparel were purchased from well-known haberdasheries in Indianapolis.

LEGION CONTEST WON BY JUNIOR CHAMBER

Palmer, Inc., has offered to pay the membership fee in the American Legion for every ex-service man in its employ, it was announced at Wednesday's luncheon of team workers on Argonne Post's expansion campaign.

"This is a genuine tribute to the legion and real recognition by the civic and personal value of the legion to the community and to the ex-service men," said Commander William A. Simon.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, led by Fitzhugh Knox, won Wednesday's prize for the largest number of members secured since Tuesday's luncheon, six tickets to the Lyric theater to be divided among members of the team.

A total of 138 new members and renewals was reported up to Wednesday noon.

It was decided, in view of the regular weekly luncheon Friday, to postpone Thursday's luncheon for team workers and to present the report for that day on Friday.

In line with plans of the local post to bring the membership campaign to the attention of every possible ex-service man in Atlanta, a large army truck, equipped with high-power radio receiving apparatus loaned by Montgomery Ward and company, has been stationed at Marietta and Forsyth streets in front of the Grady monument, and will give radio programs during the day, picked up from stations from all over the country.

The legion's radio broadcasting program Tuesday night over Ludden and Bates station, was enthusiastically received by thousands of listeners throughout Atlanta, judging by the numerous returns that have already come to the attention of post officials.

CUDAHY PACKING PLANT TO BE ERECTED HERE

Announcement of purchase of a site at 409 Whitehall street and of plans for establishment of a distributing plant for the Cudahy Packing company, was made Wednesday by Ben R. Padgett of the Padgett Realty company, who acted as agent in the sale.

The Cudahy company will erect a three-story structure, to cost about $100,000, which will be used as the main distributing point for the entire southeast, it is stated.

The site was purchased from Mrs. Edward Traynham and Mrs. James Freeman for $32,000. It has a frontage of 75 feet, and extends 174 feet back to the Central of Georgia railroad. Railway facilities already have been provided.

Building plans are being drawn in Chicago and construction work will begin immediately, Mr. Padgett stated.

Elbert Exempts Taxes For Five-Year Term On New Industries

Elberton, Ga., January 14.—(Special.)—Elbert county today voted almost unanimously in favor of exempting taxes for five years on new industries locating within the county.

The bill which enabled the county to vote on this issue was passed at the last session of the legislature and was introduced by A. P. J. Stovall, representative from Elbert.

As result of today's election it is expected that Elberton will soon be the home of many new industries seeking locations where taxes are exempted.

FUNERAL OF HOWARD HELD AT GRIFFIN

Griffin, Ga., January 14.—(Special.)—Funeral services for Dr. W. S. Howard, prominent physician of Experiment, who was instantly killed by a northbound Central of Georgia train yesterday, will be held at the Devote Baptist church tomorrow at noon. The Rev. John F. Morton will officiate and Meridian Sun lodge of Masons will have charge of the interment.

Dr. Howard was a native of Dawson county and had been practicing at Griffin for nine years. He was a graduate of the Atlanta Medical college.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Leone Dooly, of Dawsonville, and two daughters, Edna and Sallie Howard.

Lost Yacht Found.

New Orleans, January 14.—The yacht, Alga, which yesterday was reported missing in the Gulf of Mexico with five prominent yachtsmen and business men aboard, and for which a search was instituted today by sea planes from the Pensacola naval station and boats from points along the coast, returned to Bay St. Louis today with all on board safe.

SLAYER OF FIVE IS ELECTROCUTED

Nashville, Tenn., January 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Ben Burchfield, slayer of his wife and four others at Bristol, November 20, 1922, paid the extreme penalty for his crime at dawn today. He was electrocuted at the main Tennessee prison here at 5:50 a. m., and was pronounced dead in two minutes.

Stoically did Burchfield face death, reiterating to the end his declarations of innocence.

Before departing for the death chamber Burchfield shook hands with the prisoners, telling them good-bye, and said in true mountaineer style, "Mother's up yander, and I'm going to meet her."

Burchfield kept a steady nerve and was perfectly composed until the end came, according to Warden A. A. McCorkle. The condemned man made no final statement further than to protest his innocence, and to declare that he was "ready to die," Warden McCorkle said.

The prison officials refused to admit any persons to witness the execution except the court officials, physicians and the chaplain.

Burchfield spent the night before his execution calmly, prison attendants said. He was visited last night by his father, Wilson Burchfield, and his sister, Mrs. Henry Ervin, both of Johnson City, who had interceded with Governor Austin Peay for a respite of 90 days.

The prisoner rested some during the night and had a breakfast a little past 5 o'clock this morning. Then following a song and prayer service, led by the prison chaplain, R. E. Travis, through all of which he seemed unmoved as to his impending fate, the warden said.

Governor Peay declined to interfere in the execution after conference of 18 hours with relatives of the slayer, his counsel and state officials, which ended at 2 o'clock this morning.

The sentence was affirmed by the supreme court after the court had ordered Burchfield examined to determine his mental condition and alienists had found him sane.

The crime for which Burchfield paid his life was the slaying of his wife, Delia Burchfield; his step-son, Charles; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, relatives of Mrs. Burchfield, and their infant daughter, Ruby.

The five persons were slain apparently with a blunt instrument, the evidence stated, and the dwelling in which the bodies were left was burned.

The body of Burchfield will be taken to Johnson City for burial.

AGNES SCOTT URGES WORLD COURT VOTE

Decatur, Ga., January 14.—(Special.)—The faculty and students of Agnes Scott college are eager for the senate to vote on a world court measure before it adjourns on March 4.

A community meeting was held Tuesday morning and the following telegram was sent by President McCain:

"Six hundred members of the faculty and students of Agnes Scott college, representing 33 states, by formal resolution this morning urge your committee to make a prompt report to the senate on world court."

Most eager for vote on subject by March 4. Great majority favor Harding-Hughes plan, but special plea to you is for prompt action."

WASH. H. MILLS FINED $100 AND BOUND OVER

Wash H. Mills, former special investigator of the Ku Klux Klan, Wednesday afternoon was found guilty in recorder's court of operating an automobile under influence of liquor.

He was fined $100 by Judge Murphy M. Holloway and bound over for grand jury under a $300 bond.

Mills served in the Ku Klux Klan secret service, under direction of Fred L. Savage.

Little Harry had just returned from his first party. His aunt asked him: "Harry, did you have a good time and did you dance with the girls?" "No, no, I didn't dance once, and there were lots of empty girls, too."—Everybody's Magazine.

REV. WALTER STEHL HERE TO CONSIDER SAINT LUKE CALL

Rev. Walter Byron Stehl, D. D., rector of St. John's church in Hagerstown, Md., arrived in Atlanta Wednesday, upon the invitation of the vestry of St. Luke's Protestant Episcopal, to consider an offer of the pulpit recently vacated by Rev. C. B. Wilmer, who resigned to accept a position on the faculty of the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn.

Dr. Stehl is a leader in church affairs in Hagerstown, of which he has been in charge for four years. A dinner in his honor was given Wednesday night at the Capital City club by the vestrymen of the church.

Snow Trail Storm Forces Mail Carrier To Cache His Load

Charlevoix, Mich., January 14.—William Boyle, mail carrier from St. James, Beaver Island, and two companions reached Cross Village, near here today after a 17-hour struggle to bring the mail from the island to the mainland. Part way across the trio ran into a raging blizzard. To make land, the men were forced to lighten their loads and 14 sacks of mail were cached.

Boyle plans to go out on the ice as soon as possible in search of the mail. The storm was the worst, he declared, he has experienced in 15 years as a mail carrier over the 30 miles of ice between the island and mainland.

Washington, January 14.—After 21 years in a committee pigeonhole, the Isle of Pines treaty, formally ceding that tropical green spot in the Atlantic to Cuba, will be brought before the senate for the first time Thursday.

The treaty, drawn up by Secretary of State Hay, in the Roosevelt administration, cedes the island of Cuba in exchange for the naval base at Guantanamo bay, which this government has used for years. The supreme court held in 1908 that the island was Cuba's of right, without the treaty.

Opposition of senators in behalf of constituents who want to live there and now have extensive holdings heretofore has prevented action by the senate. It has been claimed by Americans there fighting ratification that settlers went there on misrepresentation.

Several senators are opposed to the treaty. It is expected that their opposition, however, will not be sufficient to prevent its ratification, which requires a two-thirds vote. The treaty will be considered in open executive session, and it is expected that several days will be taken up in debate.

ISLE OF PINES PACT UP TODAY

Washington, January 14.—After 21 years in a committee pigeonhole, the Isle of Pines treaty, formally ceding that tropical green spot in the Atlantic to Cuba, will be brought before the senate for the first time Thursday.

The treaty, drawn up by Secretary of State Hay, in the Roosevelt administration, cedes the island of Cuba in exchange for the naval base at Guantanamo bay, which this government has used for years. The supreme court held in 1908 that the island was Cuba's of right, without the treaty.

Opposition of senators in behalf of constituents who want to live there and now have extensive holdings heretofore has prevented action by the senate. It has been claimed by Americans there fighting ratification that settlers went there on misrepresentation.

Several senators are opposed to the treaty. It is expected that their opposition, however, will not be sufficient to prevent its ratification, which requires a two-thirds vote. The treaty will be considered in open executive session, and it is expected that several days will be taken up in debate.

Participation in Operation Of Dawes Plan Is Big Stride In Foreign Contacts of U. S.

Theory of Complete Isolation Held by Senate Group Four Years Completely Broken Down.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, January 14.—This government has become a partner in the operation of the Dawes plan by the signing of the protocol at the Paris financial conference Wednesday.

This was a momentous step, so far as the foreign contacts of the United States are concerned. It means that this government has acquired a direct, substantial monetary interest in seeing the Dawes plan successfully carried out.

The United States is given a share in the reparations collections made under the Dawes plan. The European powers have cut down their pro-rata shares to permit division of the collections to the United States, in payment of costs of the American army of occupation and war damage claims.

Steps Were Gradual.

It is only a small sum, as the total figures go. But it is a big item in the effort of the United States to adjust itself to the demands of the intricate and closely inter-related affairs of the post-war world, and at the same time observe the mandate of isolation imposed by the senate when it rejected the Treaty of Versailles and ordered a separate peace with Germany.

This point of direct participation in the proceeds of the Dawes plan has been reached by gradual, almost imperceptible steps, which have broken down the theory of isolation held by the victor group. The senate, though Harding went into the white house to carry out the will of that group, his administration soon found that complete isolation was impossible and now at the end of four years the United States has developed many points of contact with European affairs, though observing the injunction to abstain from joining the League of Nations.

Among these points of contact are: The Dawes Plan. This plan for stabilizing Germany's finances and insuring payment of reparations was evolved under the direction of three Americans, Charles G. Dawes, Owen D. Young and Henry M. Robinson, after Secretary of State Hughes had proposed a commission of experts in December, 1922. Now by the Paris agreement, the United States is participating in the collections under that plan.

CODIFICATION OF INTERNATIONAL LAW. The United States has accepted an invitation to participate in a conference for codification of international law to be held next spring under the sponsorship of the League of Nations.

Traffic in Arms. The League of Nations has proposed a conference for discussion of limitation of traffic in arms and munitions, to which the United States will send delegates. This has nothing to do with the general question of armaments.

Narcotic Drug Conference. The United States is participating in the conference on narcotic drugs, now going on at Geneva, with delegation headed by Representative Porter of Pennsylvania. This is being held under the auspices of the League of Nations for the purpose of curtailing production of opium and coca leaves.

The United States is interested in other league projects, such as the suppression of traffic in women, and notably the world court of international justice, which the administration is seeking to join. This question is now before the senate. It may join the league armament conference if this materializes.

"Unofficial Observers." The United States has carried on even more important activity through its system of "unofficial observers." This device was necessary for reasons of political expediency. But the "unofficial observers" have nevertheless played a powerful part in adjustment of affairs in Europe. The Dawes plan was the work of unofficial Americans, and it was agreed by Germany at the famous London conference, where Ambassador Kellogg sat as an "unofficial observer." Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon happened by curious coincidence to be in Europe at the time on pleasure visits.

Going back a year or so, we have the negotiations over American participation in the Turkish oil fields, and the gum-shoe activity of American diplomatic representatives at the Genoa and Geneva conferences.

DEATH OF MOTHER AND TWINS CAUSES CASHIER'S SUICIDE
Chapel Hill, N. C., January 14.—Ralph Poston Andrews, aged 33, assistant cashier of the People's bank here, today committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with a pistol. Despondency over the death of twin boys born two days ago and of his mother six weeks ago was the cause assigned. Bank officials said there was nothing to indicate any financial troubles.

BISHOP PUT HALO ON MATERIALISM

sacrificed its claim to catholicity by such action.

"Formulated doctrines are but the expression of religious experience," he added, "just as so-called natural laws are expressions of scientific experience in the fields of research. And you can call a formulated doctrine a dogma if you wish without making it what the defense here called a 'debased doctrine.' A dogma is no more imposed upon us by the church than is natural law imposed upon us by science. A dogma is not true because the church says it is true, but the church says it is true because it has become convinced of that truth by religious experience."

Denies Domination of Creed.
Mr. Dibble denied that the Nicene creed had been dominated by the Emperor Constantine.

"Constantine may have been the despotic character that the defense painted yesterday," said Mr. Dibble, "but even so, he was no worse than Trotsky or Lenin or the other disciples of the school of thought to which this defendant has attached himself."

The Nicene creed had its start in a town 1,500 miles south of Nice, the village of Bethlehem, and all we know about God came from that place for Christ said: "He that hath seen Me hath seen God."

The church advocate discussed, too, the phrase: "Resurrection of the body" as found in the apostles' creed.

"The word 'body' was 'flesh' in the original Latin," he said, "resurrection of the dead." It might be thought that there are three versions of one doctrine, but the outstanding fact is the word "resurrection."

"Some one asked St. Paul, as this defendant has asked here, how the body could be raised up, and Paul replied: 'Don't fool, when thou sowest thou scatterest not the body that shall be, but bare grain, and God soweth such seed as pleases Him.' That is as far as this church goes."

Mr. Dibble closed with an appeal to the court to bear in mind the million of church members throughout the world who have relied upon the teachings of the New Testament and the doctrine of immortality for their guides in this life. Individuality will shatter their every hope if you permit this defendant to teach the materialistic doctrine of the bishop of his church," he said. "He has declared Christ a myth and Christianity without Christ. He has said that the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Mr. Shantz wound up the day's proceedings with a final presentation of the defense position on the legal aspects of the case. He emphasized especially the claim that bishops are mutually independent in matters of doctrine and that therefore no church court had a right to bring his client to trial.

CONTRACTS ARE LET FOR 40 SEAPLANES
Washington, January 14.—A million dollars' worth of seaplanes has been ordered by the bureau of aeronautics of the navy department, it was learned today, the granting of a contract to the Glenn L. Martin company, of Cleveland, for 40 machines. Work on the new ships will begin immediately.

'4-Minute Thief' Is Near Capture, Police Declare

Mineola, N. Y., January 14.—Postal inspectors announced tonight that they were "hot on the trail" of the steel-nerved robber who last night boarded a Long Island train and, single-handed, helped himself to a $10,000 packet of currency and escaped, all within the space of four minutes.

The "four-minute thief," Chief Inspector Claranah declared, had one or two accomplices who, the inspector said, soon will be apprehended. He said the chase had been narrowed down to two or three "well-known New York crooks."

Neither railway mail employees nor men on the staff of the First National Bank of Baltimore, which had mailed the $10,000 packet to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, were implicated, Claranah indicated.

A motor car found near Hempstead today, stripped of license plates, was said by federal agents to have been in which the bandit and his confederates had escaped with their loot. With conscious irony, the car had been abandoned in front of the home of a Garden City police sergeant.

FIREMAN OVERCOME IN DOWNTOWN BLAZE

Paul B. McKinney, fireman, of station number 8, was overcome by smoke Wednesday night as he battled flames which threatened to destroy the Outlet Sample Shoe store at 11 West Mitchell street. Loss was estimated unofficially by Chief Cady at $15,000. McKinney was revived and his condition is not serious.

The origin of the fire is unknown. Pedestrians discovered it and turned in the alarm. A grocery store at 9 West Mitchell, owned by J. H. Bullock, was damaged by water and smoke, although the fire was confined to the shoe store.

Herman Miles, manager of the shoe store, could not be reached late Wednesday night.

Chicago, January 14.—All possibility of a match in the immediate future between Wayne Munn, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, and Ed "Strangler" Lewis, from whom he recently won the title, was eliminated tonight when Munn announced that he has signed a $2,500-a-week vaudeville contract.

The Nebraska said the vaudeville management will extend up to the middle of April and that no big engagements for the mat will be taken on in the meantime.

LIVE STOCK CREDIT FACILITIES GOOD

Washington, January 14.—President Coolidge was advised today by his agricultural commission that existing credit emergency in the live-stock industry, but that a new land policy, revision of transportation charges and a protective tariff are needed to put the cattle business on a sound footing.

In a preliminary report, in which it reserved its recommendations concerning the tariff and freight rates, the commission declared it had sought a solution of the live-stock problem, as far as possible, through better utilization of existing government institutions "in sympathy with the president's desire for decreased tax burdens and further simplicity of government operations."

Need Credit Facilities.
The cattle industry is faced with a serious shortage of credit facilities, the report said, and the "federal intermediate credit banks should assume the full responsibility by aggressively and sympathetically undertaking to cover the field and thus support and supplement the normal financing of live-stock paper."

Recommendation was made that the federal farm loan board, which administers the credit banks, should inform cattle men and bankers that they are willing to provide adequate discount facilities for "all sound loans" to live-stock raisers.

Require Emergency Report.
Amendment of the agricultural credit act to eliminate the provision prohibiting discounting by the credit banks of loans negotiated by agencies having federal charters was suggested, and the chairman of the farm loan board would be required to report to the president on July 1 as to progress made in meeting the emergency.

"Resolutions of the committee to draft a uniform policy covering cattle grazing on public domain and in national forests was suggested and the commission proposed increasing present grazing charges in the meantime. The commission would be composed of the secretaries of interior and agriculture and three other members appointed by them."

Bandit Wounds Woman Victim And Takes Purse

After striking down Mrs. J. A. Johnson, of 208 Lucile avenue, a robber Wednesday night snatched her purse and escaped. Ten dollars was the loot obtained. Mrs. Johnson was not injured seriously, but is under the care of her doctors.

"I had been shopping at a grocery near our home and was returning, when I passed a vacant store," Mrs. Johnson told Call Officers Goode and Ballard, who arrested her. "When I neared the door of the store, a man stepped out and demanded my valuables. I told him I had none, and he struck me with a stick, snatched my purse and ran."

The robbery occurred on Lucile avenue near Holderness street. Mrs. Johnson said she did not know the man who could not see whether her assailant was a white man or a negro.

TWO ATLANTAS SUGGEST TRIBUTE

Atlanta showed its appreciation of his entertainment here by giving the city some dandy articles, like a sincere tribute to the southern atmosphere and conditions pervading Atlanta.

"We could do nothing better than this to show that we appreciate references Mr. McIntyre made to our city in his last two articles," Mr. Stauder said. "We have a project. The McIntyres will sail Saturday."

A steamer letter containing a short greeting or a few words of appreciation if mailed today will reach the McIntyres before they depart. A telegram sent Friday will reach them in time. Letters and telegrams received last November were appreciated by the McIntyres.

Since Mr. McIntyre helps tens of thousands of readers in the southeast to "start the day off right," it is suggested that his admirers should "start him off right" on his trip to Europe by letting him know that they appreciate not only his daily articles, but also appreciating him as a man and are gratified at the news this he said about Atlanta in his recent stories.

Here Are Letters.
Following are the letters:

"Editor Constitution: I have just received news that O. O. McIntyre, author of 'Bits of New York Life,' accompanied by his wife, will sail from New York on the Mauretania on Saturday, the 17th. The thought occurs to me that since Mr. McIntyre's daily articles go so far toward helping his thousands of readers in Atlanta to 'start the day off right,' bright and happy, here is their chance to somewhat even matters by wishing him a happy voyage and a pleasant and prosperous stay in Europe, where he will spend six weeks."

"I would suggest therefore that The Constitution call on its readers to either mail Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre a steamer letter today or send a telegram tomorrow, addressing them care The Mauretania, sailing Saturday, January 17, Cunard line docks, New York city."

"I might also suggest that Mr. McIntyre, who was so kind in his references to Atlanta in his last two articles, would thus be shown that we appreciate nice things when they are said about us."

GRAY LINE MOTORS PRESIDENT IS DEAD

New Orleans, January 14.—Nelson L. Towle, president of the Gray Line Motors Touring company of Chicago, with a string of buses in New Orleans, died today at a local hospital, where he had been recovering from injuries received last November in an encounter with a hotel porter. Death was ascribed to poison from a bladder ailment.

Police officials were at first inclined to believe that Mr. Towle's death was the result of his injuries, but a conference late today between Dr. Carroll W. Allen, attending physician, and Coroner O'Hara resulted in an order to the police to release the porter.

Many more golf balls are imported into this country from England than from Scotland.

'King of Ivories' Plays Farewell Program in Pen

Jefferson City, Mo., January 14.—(By The Associated Press.)—Harry M. Snodgrass, the "king of the ivories," played his farewell program as a convict tonight from State Radio Station WOS. The "king" will be a free man Friday.

Part of the radioacting equipment of station WOS was moved from the studio in the Missouri capitol dome to the house of representatives chamber, while several hundred persons crowded the hall to hear him. In the audience was Mrs. Harry Snodgrass, the musician's wife, and their eight-year-old son.

At the microphone was Don Witten, veteran announcer of WOS, who received second place in a nationwide contest to determine the most popular radio announcer. Witten, too, was making a last appearance at WOS for when Snodgrass leaves Friday. Witten will go with him on a vaudeville tour.

Snodgrass in a short address told listeners he was going to "make good." He was sent to the prison from St. Louis in June, 1923, to serve three years for attempted robbery.

MAIN BUILDING BURNS AT PINNACLE SCHOOL

Cleveland, Ga., January 14.—(Special.)—The main building of the Pinnacle Mountain school here was consumed by fire yesterday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock. All of the building and most of the personal effects of the pupils and the records in the office were saved.

The building was insured for $15,000, which was about half its cost. Professor H. C. Lyons, superintendent of the school, says plans are being worked out for the school to continue. The pupils are being comfortably housed in other buildings.

vision for government operation until a lease had been negotiated by the president.

The terms of the lease would be on a minimum basis of 4 per cent annually on the cost of the construction of dam No. 2 and of the hydro-electric machinery installed there. The lessee would be required to produce 10,000 tons of nitrate annually during the life of the lease after the fifth year from its effective date.

This nitrate would be converted into fertilizer during peace time, but in the event of war the government would have full authority to commandeer the property on five days' notice and convert it for the production of nitrate for explosives.

Compels Experiments.
An added provision relating to nitrates, forced into the original measure during the whirlwind proceedings yesterday, would provide for fertilizer experimentation for a period of six years at the end of which time the lessee could report back to congress, if the facts in the situation warranted, that it was not feasible to manufacture nitrates for fertilizer without a loss. Congress then would determine the future policy with respect to this feature of the project.

The fertilizer experimentation would be for the improvement of existing processes for the fixation of nitrogen. Many senators insisted that this experimentation should remain in the hands of the government, arguing that the lessee would be interested solely in never developing or else come into sole ownership of any processes developed.

Senator Underwood declared that his bill was in the interest first of national defense and second of fertilization of the soil.

ARSENATE NOTES REDISCOUNTABLE

Washington, January 14.—(Special.)—Notes based on calcium arsenate stored in federal warehouses are eligible to be rediscounted at federal reserve banks, unless the calcium arsenate has been stored by a dealer in order to withhold it from the market in order to obtain a speculative price, Governor Crissinger, of the federal reserve board, has set forth as the general policy of the board in a letter to Senator Harris, of Georgia.

Senator Harris asked for an opinion upon request of E. H. Hodgson, Jr., of Athens, Ga., whose letter on the subject was laid before Crissinger. Crissinger said that "the eligibility of promissory notes for rediscount by federal reserve banks does not depend upon the existence or character of collateral security; but, under the terms of section 13 of the federal reserve act, it depends upon the question whether or not they are issued or drawn or the proceeds are used for commercial or agricultural purposes."

Must Be Negotiable.
"If, therefore, the notes in question are negotiable in form, have maturities not in excess of those prescribed by the federal reserve act, and arise out of a commercial or agricultural transaction or the proceeds are used for commercial or agricultural purposes, they are technically eligible for rediscount at a federal reserve bank," Crissinger said.

"If the notes are of farmers given in payment for calcium arsenate or other goods to be used for strictly agricultural purposes, such notes would be eligible for rediscount at a federal reserve bank with maturities not in excess of nine months."

"If, however, such notes are the notes of dealers in calcium arsenate, they could be eligible only as commercial paper with maturities not in excess of 90 days. The storage of calcium arsenate or any other goods by a dealer pending a reasonably prompt sale would be deemed to be a commercial transaction within the meaning of the federal reserve act and notes given to finance the storage would be eligible as commercial paper; but if the storage is for the purpose of withholding calcium arsenate from the market in order to obtain a speculative price it would not be deemed a commercial transaction."

Collateral Is Helpful.
"While the eligibility of promissory notes for rediscount from a federal standpoint does not depend at all upon the existence or character of collateral security, you will, of course, understand that the existence of good collateral will make them more desirable from a credit standpoint. The desirability from a credit standpoint of paper offered for rediscount, however, is a matter to be passed upon by the federal reserve banks in the exercise of their banking discretion rather than by the federal reserve board. If any more definite or specific information is desired, therefore, as to whether these notes will actually be accepted for rediscount when offered to a federal reserve bank it would be best to take the matter up directly with the federal reserve bank to which it is contemplated such notes will be offered."

India Is Fighting Killing of Monks For Rejuvenation
London, January 14.—The native newspapers of India have started a campaign against the wholesale exportation of monkeys, which has reached remarkable dimensions in recent months, according to the Daily Calcutta correspondent, who writes that this propaganda will arouse angry feelings among the Hindus, millions of whom worship monkeys.

The writer declares the traffic is exciting widespread interest and that the society for prevention of cruelty to animals is taking action regarding it. He says the animals arrive at ports packed in suffocation in rail road cars, the shipments being consigned mainly to Germany, Austria, America and England, partly to zoological collections and also for medicinal purposes. He quotes one of the Calcutta papers as saying:

"The European craze for rejuvenation is denuding India of its monkeys, the sacred animals being slaughtered so that the senile and debauched may win back a problematical youth."

The editorial warns the government that unless it forbids this "devilish trade" it will have a terrible responsibility when the consequences of the popular indignation become manifest.

Celebrate Silver Wedding

Dr. and Mrs. W. P. King, whose 25th wedding anniversary will be celebrated Friday evening at the First Methodist church, of which Dr. King is pastor, at Gainesville. Members from every denomination in Gainesville will take part in the program.

Gainesville, Ga., January 14.—(Special.)—Signal honor will be paid Dr. and Mrs. W. P. King when Friday evening, January 16, when their 25th wedding anniversary will be celebrated at a public service held in the First Methodist church here, of which Dr. King is pastor. Members of every denomination in Gainesville, as well as civic organizations, will take part in the program.

J. H. Hesch will preside and the following program will be delivered: Rev. J. G. Logan, invocation; Col. E. D. Kenyon, "Methodist Preachers in General"; Col. E. B. Dunlap, of the Baptist church, "Suggestions of a Lawyer to a Preacher"; Prof. Euler B. Smith, "Miscellaneous Observations"; Mrs. H. S. Coby, "Some Reflections of a Preacher's Wife"; Dr. H. J. Pearce, representing Rotary.

The children are Prof. Harris King of Winder; Ruskin King, senior medical student at Emory university; Miss Julia King, student at Brenau college; Howard L. King, Gainesville high school and Fern King, Gainesville high school. Gainesville friends learned that Mr. and Mrs. King would soon celebrate their silver wedding they yielded to the suggestion that the affair be held in the church and that not only the other churches of the city take part, but civic organizations also.

BOULEVARD PLANS TO BE DISCUSSED BY 82ND DIVISION

Members of the 82nd division will meet Thursday night at the Kimball house for the purpose of discussing the proposed division memorial. The meeting will follow a supper, which will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

The city planning commission has recommended that Courtland, Juniper and Washington streets be known as 82nd Boulevard, and plans for bringing about the creation of the boulevard will be discussed by members of the division, as well as by members of the city planning commission.

RUSSIA HOPING FOR RECOGNITION THROUGH KELLOGG

London, January 14.—One of the objects of the visit to Moscow of the Soviet charge d'affaires here, Christian Rakovsky, is to inform the Soviet leaders of Ambassador Kellogg's attitude toward American recognition of Russia, they having already learned at the time of Mr. Rakovsky's departure that the resignation of Secretary of State Hughes and the probable succession of Mr. Kellogg, according to the Morning Post.

The paper says that when Mr. Rakovsky returns he will probably enter into private conversations with Ambassador Kellogg for the purpose of ascertaining the conditions upon which the United States would be willing to resume relations with Russia.

CHARLES DAWES QUILTS MINUTE MEN POST

Chicago, January 14.—Vice President-elect Charles G. Dawes today announced his retirement as president of the Minute Men of the Constitution, which he organized in 1923 to foster greater respect for law and for the constitution of the United States. George A. Padlock, of Evansville, associated with Mr. Dawes in the organization, was appointed president.

BOY ADMITS WRITING BLACKMAIL LETTERS

Boston, January 14.—A dozen blackmail letters received by wealthy residents of Boston, Cambridge, Lynn and Braintree were explained today when Hyman Nathanson, a 13-year-old grammar school pupil, admitted to postoffice inspectors that he was the author. Hyman said he had seen the thing done in the movies and thought he would try it himself.

The letters, which were couched in similar terms, demanded on threat of death sums ranging from $15 to $5,000 and were signed variously, "The Red League," "The Brotherhood of Death," "Herschberger," "Myers," and "Myerson." Local police and federal investigators had spent many days attempting to trace the authorship of the demands. Yesterday young Nathanson was summoned to the federal building from the Wendell Phillips grammar school, which he attends, and, after hours of questioning, he admitted that he had written at least some of the letters.

Included in the list of Hyman's "victims" were C. Fred Smith, president of a Lynn savings bank, and Simon Shamovitch, of Boston, treasurer of a Jewish newspaper.

The boy has been in this country only three years. He was born in a Russian village near Vilna and when his parents died was brought to America by an uncle and aunt who live in the West End district of Boston.

Because of Hyman's age no action was taken in his case and he was turned over to his relatives after questioning by the federal officers and by the district attorney of Middlesex county.

COMMITTEE APPROVES DOMINICAN TREATIES

Washington, January 14.—Two treaties with the Dominican republic were approved today by the senate foreign relations committee.

One confirms the evacuation of American forces, and the other provides for the refunding of the Dominican debt of $25,000,000.

New York, January 14.—The condition of Benjamin R. Lacy, 70-year-old state treasurer of North Carolina, who is seriously ill with pulmonary congestion at the Hotel Pennsylvania, was reported to be further improved today.

Dr. Joseph D. Nagel, house physician, said Mr. Lacy had spent a comfortable night and was resting well. His recovery is expected.

The fact that Mr. Lacy has not completed signing the $15,000,000 issue of North Carolina highway bonds—the mission which brought him here last week—will not affect their validity, it was asserted today by Chester B. Massie, New York counsel on the state of North Carolina. The question was raised because Governor McLean takes office today, succeeding Governor Morrison, who affirmed his signature to the bonds and returned to Raleigh last week.

About 3,500 bonds remain to be signed by treasurer Lacy, an official of the First National Bank of New York, a member of the syndicate that bought the issue.

HOTEL FIRE PHONED OWN DANGER SIGNAL

New York, January 14.—When the telephone operator at the St. James hotel plugged in on a signal from the linen closet in the basement early today he heard a roaring noise.

Investigation showed that a fire in the linen closet had burned away the legs of a table on which the telephone stood, causing the instrument to drop and flash its signal. Guests were ordered to the street while firemen extinguished the flames.

New Dog for Coolidge

Boston, January 14.—A 12-pound pedigree Boston terrier, named "Cal's pal," gift of the Haverhill Kennel club to President Coolidge, left here tonight for Washington, where he will make his home in the white house. A letter which accompanied the dog expressed the hope that President Coolidge will accept him "as a token of respect and collective regard."

Giants Created By Use of Fluid From Brain Gland

Berkeley, Calif., January 14.—Dr. Herbert M. Evans, one of the foremost scientists in anatomy and glandular nutrition and a faculty member of the University of California, announced today in the current issue of the California monthly, a campus publication, the development of a glandular nutrition with which he claimed to have had remarkable success in physical control and propagation of animals.

The discovery has been termed vitamin "X" by Dr. Evans, who states that research work has been carried out for some time with guinea pigs, rats and tadpoles.

Dr. Evans called attention to a small gland at the base of the brain called the "hypophysis" or pituitary gland. Science, he said, already had met with success in removing that gland from animals and substituting fluid extracted from it from injections given the same animals. Continuing, he said:

"We were astonished to find that if we treated animals with this fluid, provided it was not given by the mouth but under the skin or in body cavity, it would not only increase in contact with the digestive tissues and was administered daily rather than at infrequent intervals, we could turn normal animals into giants."

He stated that efforts were being made by him and his assistants to purify the pituitary gland so that it might even be used in human cases as a restorative. Relating his success in regulating propagation of animals with glandular nutrition, Dr. Evans said: "The next point which arises is just how this will concern the general problems of human welfare. It is difficult to make any statement regarding the practical significance of the work, but we have demonstrated that the new vitamin is abundantly distributed in common foods."

BANKER ASSISTS BANDITS WHO POSE AS INSPECTORS

Bloomington, Ill., January 14.—Two bank robbers were so successful in their masquerade as inspectors that they kept J. F. Kelley, president of the Farmers' State bank of Chenoa, busy helping them count cash and check accounts three hours yesterday afternoon. The robbers, who were until after all bank employees had gone home and then bound and gagged the executive and drove away with $75,000 in cash and bonds.

A third masquerader gave the signal for the robbery. Dressed in mechanic's clothing, he entered the bank and reported to the pseudo inspectors that repairs to the automobile were completed. They immediately fell upon Mr. Kelley.

The bank president released himself an hour later and gave an alarm, but no trace of the robbers had been found today.

LECTURES OF TAYLOR DRAWING BIG CROWDS

Lectures based on general principles of psychology are being given at the Central Congregational church at 8 o'clock every night this week by Charles Taylor, director of psychological clinics of New York City. Mr. Taylor spoke Wednesday on "Relieving the Mind and Nervous System as a Basis for Psychology."

Miss Edith Louise Brooks, also a noted speaker on practical psychology, has been associated with Mr. Taylor in his clinical work and assists him in his lectures and classes. Tonight at 8 o'clock Mr. Taylor will speak on "The Psychology of Redirection and Personality." This lecture is said to be one of the best of the series.

WOULD CUT INTEREST ON RAILROAD DEBTS

Washington, January 14.—Reduction in interest rates on debts to the government by several railroad systems as a means of "keeping the country from a great financial disaster" was urged today before the senate interstate commerce committee by Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the American Railway Executives' association.

The systems mentioned were the New York, New Haven and Hartford, the Boston and Maine, and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul. Secretary Mellon agreed with the spokesmen for these roads that the government should cut the interest rate by one per cent or more.

"All the government's interests would be benefitted by stabilization," the treasury secretary said. He disclosed that these roads owe the government of $161,000,000.

CAROLINA TREASURER IS MUCH IMPROVED

New York, January 14.—The condition of Benjamin R. Lacy, 70-year-old state treasurer of North Carolina, who is seriously ill with pulmonary congestion at the Hotel Pennsylvania, was reported to be further improved today.

TWO BANK OFFICIALS RECEIVE PROMOTIONS

Two interesting promotions were made by the directors of the Citizens and Southern bank at a meeting held Wednesday, Alvah G. Maxwell being Alvah G. Maxwell, elected assistant vice president, and B. J. Smith was elected assistant cashier.

Mr. Maxwell has served the bank since 1923 in the department of bank relations and new business. He is a native of Gainesville, where he obtained his early education. Later he attended Young Harris college and received a bachelor's degree from the north Georgia college.

B. J. Smith, of the Citizens and Southern bank two years ago. He served as president of the Gainesville National bank.

Mr. Smith is one of the oldest employees of the bank. He formerly served as loan and discount clerk with the Third National bank before it was merged with the Citizens and Southern bank. He has won numerous

HUGHES BACK AT DESK AFTER ATLANTA TRIP

Washington, January 14.—Secretary Hughes returned to his desk at the state department today for a final seven weeks' period of application to pending questions of foreign policy preparatory to his retirement from office on March 4.

Returning from Atlanta, where he went to attend an American Bar association meeting just before his resignation was announced Saturday, Mr. Hughes found awaiting him an official report from Paris announcing that the financial conference had eliminated a clause in its agreement which would have restricted the total of American claims to $350,000,000.

Official comment was withheld, but the $350,000,000 figure always was considered here as merely an estimate of what these claims would aggregate when finally ready for presentation. Its elimination is gratifying to the Washington government.

Several speeches were made commending The Constitution for its statesmanlike stand against the "deadly pistol." Each speaker expressed in very strong words his intention of using whatever power his pulpit might have to assist The Constitution in its crusade against this weapon of death.

Everything that affects the lives of members of the church.

JOHNSON NAMED HEAD OF NEGRO MINISTERS

Methodist ministers, colored, at their regular meeting in Central avenue M. E. church Wednesday elected the following officers for their ministerial union for 1925:

Dr. C. L. Johnson, president; Rev. J. F. Dorsey, vice president; Rev. H. E. Burns, secretary; Rev. W. B. Wood, treasurer.

Program committee: Revs. J. P. Demery, H. W. B. Wilson, P. H. Travis, J. W. Tharpe, A. E. Martin, J. W. Queen, N. J. Crolley, D. I. Standard.

Immediately after the election a discussion was started of a program of work for the union during 1925. Every speaker was free in expressing his feeling that the ministry should concern itself, not only with the work of the particular church to which it is sent, but also with the larger interests of the kingdom which include

Whether Rheumatic or Otherwise—depend upon this new discovery for quickest action.

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up. Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease goes right in through the skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, arch, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at Jacobs' Pharmacy and druggists everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint misery gets out—quick. Mail orders filled, cash or C. O. D., Pope Laboratories, Hallowell, Maine. (adv.)

Individual Service—Nation-wide Facilities

TELEPHONE service is essentially an individual service. Each subscriber must be dealt with as an individual. His telephone instrument is a piece of individual, personal equipment. But to coordinate this instrument with a nation-wide system requires supplementary facilities in wholesale quantities. In itself, this instrument represents only a relatively small investment. Its proportionate share, however, in the total investment in wire, poles, switchboards, buildings and other plant required to make Bell System service universal in scope is an hundred times its own value. This investment per instrument is steadily increasing as more and more equipment, constantly growing more complex, is put into service at the present high prices of labor and materials. Centralized manufacture and years of continuous research have enabled the Bell System in some measure to meet this rising tide of plant investment. The result is that its service remains unrivaled not only in efficiency and in extent but in economy from the standpoint of cost to the subscriber.

Adair Realty Firm Begins Big Florida Development

Marked interest in local real estate circles is manifested by the announcement Wednesday from Sarasota, Fla., that the Adair Realty & Trust company, of this city, had been appointed exclusive sales agent for the famous Whitfield estates on Sarasota bay, which until recently has been part of the estate of the late Alfred Ringling, of Ringling Brothers.

The property involved aggregates a value of more than $8,000,000 and for nearly a half a century has been held intact by the Ringlings, who refused to part with this section of their Sarasota holdings. The plot contains more than 600 acres, with a mile and a quarter frontage on Sarasota bay and also a long beach on the side of the famed Tamiami trail.

Appointment of the Adair organization marks the entrance of this nationally known local firm into an expanded Florida activity. For years they have been in intimate contact with conditions in the state and have been intensely interested in its upbuilding. Through the sale of first mortgage real estate bonds they have taken millions of dollars into Florida for building construction and are responsible for some of the state's finest buildings. The Tampa Terrace hotel, in Tampa; the Lakeland Terrace hotel, in Lakeland; the Guaranty building, in Miami; the 510 West Church street apartments in Jacksonville and the Crescent apartments in Tampa are notable among the fine structures financed by them.

This Atlanta firm was also the first to realize the needs of Florida's smaller towns and was the first financial

CHAMBER NAMES AYER AS DIRECTOR

Election of Cornelius K. Ayer, well-known Atlanta, to the board of directors and endorsement of "The Made in Atlanta Exposition," which is to be held in Atlanta March 16-21, featured the meeting of the board of directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock in the chamber building.

Cornelius K. Ayer, new member of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce, succeeding Foyville McWhorter, who recently left Atlanta to make his home in Miami.

Ayer was elected for a term of two years and fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of Foyville McWhorter, who has left the chamber to accept a responsible position in a Miami banking institution.

The newly elected director is a native of Rome, Ga., and the son of a former mayor of that city. His father is one of the leading officials of the N. C. & St. L. railroad. Mr. Ayer has lived in Atlanta for the past 20 years and is recognized as one of the city's leading civic workers. He has been active in chamber work for several years, and for a number of years has been the southern representative of Joshua Bailey & Co., of Philadelphia, distributors and sales agents for about 20 cotton mills throughout the south.

"Made-in-Atlanta" Week.

A lengthy discussion concerning the "Made-in-Atlanta" exposition, to be held in the city auditorium the week of March 16-21, was a feature of the meeting. The exposition is being planned by hundreds of Atlanta manufacturers who will display goods. In this connection, the Chamber of Commerce will undertake during this week to have Atlanta-made goods displayed in windows throughout the city. The Atlanta Retail Merchants' association and the Atlanta Real Estate board is also cooperating with the chamber.

In endorsing this movement, however, the Chamber of Commerce does not endorse the plan of buying Atlanta-made products only, but merely endorses the movement as an educational display of the 1,500 different articles made in Atlanta.

The exposition, it was pointed out, gives Atlanta citizens the opportunity of witnessing the development of the city and products manufactured in it. It is a feature for the week will be the use by the Georgia Railway & Power company on its tracks in the city of cars made in Atlanta.

A meeting of the manufacturers and mechanics will be held in the chamber building next week to devise plans for the exposition.

New Junior Director.

The directors of the organization, recognizing the outstanding work of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, elected a new director to the membership of 1,500, voted to honor that organization by placing a director from the Junior Chamber membership in addition to the president of the organization. John M. Slaton, Jr., on the board of directors of the senior organization, subject to the approval of the membership of the senior organization, was elected to the position. Joy LeCraw, a director and past president of the Junior Chamber was unanimously elected a director of the senior organization.

A second request from concerns in New York asking that the chamber endorse a world court meeting in Atlanta was declined by the board of directors. Previously the directors have declined the request, stating that it believed that the matter was a political one.

For Weather Reports.

C. F. von Hermann, meteorologist, in a letter to the board answering complaints as to incorrect weather reports, suggested that better reports could be made provided Atlanta could establish a suburban observatory outside of the city limits, so as to escape the smoke and dust.

"The observatory should be in an open location where the thermometer could be displayed near the ground," he indicated. "This would require an act of congress, appropriating the necessary funds for purchase of grounds and erection of a suitable observatory," he added. He suggested that it would ultimately pay the city and county, as well as benefit the weather bureau itself, to have such a suburban observatory, but it was also necessary to obtain a city office. The weather bureau will carry out such plans if funds are available," Mr. von Hermann declared.

Directors of the chamber will immediately take up the matter with its Washington representative and will endeavor to have Fulton county commissioners declare a suitable location," stated Mr. Barker.

The following were elected to membership of the senior organization at the meeting Wednesday:

William F. Wilcox, Ludlow Valve Manufacturing company.

Frank Hatley, Hatley's, 109 Marietta street.

Jim Kibbe, the Jim Kibbe company.

C. M. Borer, Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company.

Ed L. Humphreys, Southern Saw Works.

Fred H. Bostwick, Bostwick Bros.

Morgan T. Wynne, Wynne Clougherty Realty Sales corporation.

Charles R. Hartfield, Hartfield Loan and Savings company.

SUTTON WILL SPEAK TO CITY CLUB FRIDAY

Professor Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta public schools, will be principal speaker at 12:30 o'clock Friday at a luncheon at the City club at the Piedmont hotel. "The Problems of Housing School Children" will be his subject. President Joel Hunter will preside.

Dr. Lorenz Held In Mexican Port As Filibusterer

Washington, January 14.—The captain, the crew of the American sailing vessel Ruth, of Pensacola, Fla., and a man "claiming to be Dr. W. F. Lorenz, chairman of the Wisconsin state board of control," have been placed in jail at Progress, Mexico, by order of the captain of the port of that place.

The state department announced the arrests today after receipt of a report from the consul at Progress. Representations were made at once to the Mexican government through the American embassy in Mexico City and the consul was instructed to make a thorough investigation and report details of the affair.

Aside from the report that the Ruth had been shipwrecked details were lacking.

The consul's dispatch was interpreted by officials here as indicating that some doubt existed as to the identity of "Lorenz."

Supplemental advice from Consul Vogenitz regarding the arrest of the ship's officer and crew said they had been placed in jail on a charge of filibustering. He also stated that the Ruth carried a cargo of ice and had no arms aboard except one or two rifles used for shark shooting.

Dr. Lorenz is listed at the veterans' bureau as a former major in the army medical corps.

Governor Blaine, of Wisconsin, protested against the arrest of the ship today to the state department. Both the consul at Progress and the embassy at Mexico City were instructed by the department to exert every effort to have the men released.

Report that the release of Dr. Lorenz had been ordered were said at the state department not to be in conformity with its information. The department has requested his release.

LORENZ SAILING AS MATE.

Madison, Wis., January 14.—Dr. W. F. Lorenz, who held a prison term at Progress, Yucatan, according to reports, left his home here January 14 to cruise southern waters in hope of regaining his health.

Dr. Lorenz, who is 45, is head of the Wisconsin state board of control and a nationally-known psychiatrist. Unable to get passage on a larger ship, Dr. Lorenz succeeded in obtaining a small sailing boat, and in a letter to his wife expressed his pleasure at being able to touch ports seldom reached by larger vessels.

He is believed that he is a member of the crew it is believed that the authorities holding him will require evidence that he is a government official of Wisconsin.

FAIR WEATHER TODAY

Slightly Higher Temperatures Seen by Forecaster.

Fair weather and slightly higher temperatures are slated for Atlanta today, according to C. F. von Hermann, head of the local weather bureau. Mercury reached a low level of 29 degrees Wednesday morning and is expected to drop to that point again today, but mean temperature for the day will be higher, according to the forecast.

"Atlanta is slated for fine snappy weather," Mr. Hermann said. "The low temperature Wednesday was 29 degrees, reaching a high of 42 degrees. It is expected to go to about 45 Thursday. Another heavy frost is scheduled."

HOOPER SEES PLAN FOR LOWER PRICES

Washington, January 14.—Possibilities of reducing the spread in commodity prices between the farmer and the consumer on the one hand and the elimination of waste in present distribution processes, Secretary Hoover declared in an address prepared for delivery before the opening session today of a conference of business representatives convening here to study the subject.

He believed the end could be attained by "voluntary cooperation in industry and commerce without governmental regulation."

The secretary's address provided a keynote for the two-day discussions of the problem in which the nearly 200 delegates, meeting under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will lay the ground work for a detailed committee study directed to improving distribution processes.

A brief opening address by Richard F. Frant, president of the chamber, outlining the purposes of the conference, preceded on the program that of Secretary Hoover.

Can Reduce Margin.

"I believe that we can reduce the margin between our farming and manufacturing products on one side and our consumers on the other, and I believe it can be done without reduction of wages or legitimate profits," Mr. Hoover declared. "I believe that in doing so we can make the greatest contribution to the improvement of the position of our farmers and that we can make a contribution to the lower cost of living."

"These possibilities lie in the elimination of waste. The area of undue profits in the margin has been pretty well eliminated in the past two years, the processes of competition having attended to this job."

The secretary cited speculative, seasonal operation, lack of standardization, failure of coordination between transportation and industry, bad credit systems, "destructive competition," and improper use of materials as among the causes of the present wastage.

"These wastes are not the small change of industry and commerce," he added. "There is scarcely a step in this accomplishment of squeezing out waste which does not interpret itself in millions of dollars of national saving. In the end, the public pays the bill."

Can Eliminate Waste.

The secretary said his conclusions as to the possibility of eliminating waste in the distribution processes were drawn from the study of the question by the department of commerce, which has demonstrated the "possibility and success of a definite program" now being developed in more than a hundred industries and trades. Collective action in the trades is the needed remedy, he said, adding that it would not be found in "any legislative extension of the Ten Commandments."

"Nor am I talking about abrogating the Sherman act," Mr. Hoover continued. "I have no patience with those who deliberately try to confuse these efforts at cooperation in waste elimination with price-fixing and restraint of trade."

Declaring the "periodic inflationary boom and its consequent ensuing slump" was the greatest waste of the economic system in this country, the secretary said this would be eliminated only by putting into the hands of the individual business man the current information necessary to do it. To this the government, by collection and distribution of statistical information, can contribute much.

"There are processes of wasteful competition which are entirely outside of legal interpretation of unfair competition," Mr. Hoover added. "These arise chiefly from ignorance of efficient business methods and they impregnate our whole system of distribution from top to bottom. The only remedy I know is education."

TRAFFIC BARRED ON PONCE DE LEON FOR PAVING WORK

Complete blockading of Ponce de Leon avenue from Boulevard to the South end of the city in order that paving of the thoroughfare may proceed uninterrupted, will be effective Friday morning, it was announced Wednesday by Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, chairman of the street committee of council.

Original plans called for leaving one side of the thoroughfare open at all times but they were altered to insure safety and to expedite the work. However, provisions have been made for persons traveling on Kennesaw avenue and the affected section of Ponce de Leon to reach their homes.

Impossible To Fix Date Yet To Announce Contest Winner

It is not possible to fix definitely the date on which prize winners in The Constitution's twin match' contest will be announced. The influx of answers, which began arriving even before the closing hour last Saturday at midnight has so overwhelmed workers that it would be foolish to hazard a prediction of the time required to complete the judging.

No contest ever conducted by The Constitution met with such universal response as the unique and novel feature of arranging pictures of hundreds of twins, conducted in the traverse section of The Constitution for the past few weeks. Every state is represented in the immense piles of mail, which more than a score of workers are engaged in classifying. A number of mail sacks of answers reached Atlanta Wednesday, having been mailed by Pacific coast readers, while other distant points also were represented in late mail arrivals.

Huge mail pouches, containing several hundred answers each, are piled in every available space in The Constitution's six-story building, and despite headway of workers since last Sunday, it is almost impossible to notice any decrease in size of mail piles.

The work, although entrusted to experienced hands and rapid workers, will be slow. The nature of classification involved, the care which workers must exercise, the unusual amount of work involved in determining correct solutions to several scores of puzzles—all must be taken into consideration.

All answers will be opened and carefully checked against the correct solution, which has been prepared and is known only to the contest editor.

Workers, although opening and checking each answer to a certain point, pass each paper to the contest editor, who carefully goes over and re-checks each one. This, of course, requires more time than the average newspaper contest feature.

Within a few days, however, readers of The Constitution and others interested in the outcome of the contest will be advised of the date on which names of prize winners will be made known, along with the correct solution.

HIGHSMITH FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for John S. Highsmith, 42, Atlanta attorney, who died Tuesday night at his home in Hapeville, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the First Baptist church. Dr. Charles W. Daniel will officiate. Interment will be at Magnolia cemetery.

Mr. Highsmith was a Pythian, an Elk, an Odd Fellow, a Maccabee and a member of the First Baptist church. In addition to widow, Mrs. Ella Wilson Highsmith, he is survived by his father, Joe Highsmith, of Brunswick. He was a nephew of Judge Peter Highsmith, of the Brunswick circuit.

Chambers Committee Leaders Are Named

President W. R. C. Smith at a meeting of the board of directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock named a number of committee chairmen who are to serve for 1925.

Chairmen of committees named were: Farm and marketing bureau, H. G. Hastings; extension and publicity bureau, Louis D. Newton; art, J. J. Haverly; aviation, R. E. L. Cone; forum and hospitality, Norman C. Miller; greater Atlanta, Thomas W. Connolly; plaza and viaduct, Paul H. Norcross; registration, C. T. Dunham; school and educational, Joel Hunter; and Greater Atlanta, chief, John F. Burdine.

Chambers are not appointed to head the following committees but will be named during the next few days: Executive, finance, legal, moral, insurance, Stone Mountain memorial, tax and legislative, and military.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membrane of the throat and chest. Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and sugar.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and tastes very pleasant.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in the way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cough may be accompanied by a sore throat and chest inflammation—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and is the most powerful cough remedy for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions and you get the real thing else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HOOP Brick ARE GOOD Brick

Neglected Cough Dangerous—How to Stop It Quickly

When the delicate tissues of your throat are raw and sore from coughing, and your strength is exhausted with the constant hacking, you may fall an easy prey to more serious trouble. So stop the cough the quickest you can, before it creeps too deep. By a very simple prescription known to Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs, you simply take a teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing without following with water. It has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. With the cause treated in this way, the whole coughing condition goes in a very short time.

Only British Lady Bookmaker

HAS JUST DIVORCED "LOVELY, CHARMING MAN"

Here for Vacation in Florida

By ROBERT E. GARST.

New York, January 14.—Mrs. Helen Vernet, England's first and only lady bookmaker, who handles $25,000 annually in race track bets, has arrived here on the Mauretania for a vacation at Palm Beach after divorcing "one of the loveliest and most charming men in the world."

Mrs. Vernet cheerfully admits she is more than 50 years old, but she can afford to be frank about it here, for she brought with her the vivacity and charm which has made her one of the leading figures at Ascot and other British tracks.

"I am here for a vacation," she said, "and after a few days in New York to see what it is like, I am going to Palm Beach to get some sun and sea. I love it. I hate cold weather. I am just after divorcing my husband, one of the loveliest and most charming men in the world, and I need a change. He is a member of the London stock exchange. We were married 14 years, but just couldn't make a go of it, and when that happened, I think it best to separate."

Mrs. Vernet chatted amiably of her affairs, describing her career as a bookmaker. Although she comes from one of the oldest English families, her desire to be doing something led her into a fashionable modest shop in London. From that beginning, her personal charm is said to have swept her to a position of prominence at race tracks that no other woman has enjoyed. She went to Ladbroke & Company, of London, one of the largest turf commission agents in the world, she said, and told them she thought she could make a go of it taking bets from women. They took her up and now, after 12 years, she is taking more bets from men than women.

Describing England since war as a bettering nation, Mrs. Vernet said she was not nearly so large as before the war, but that betting was more widespread. People who never before were attracted to the races were now flocking there, and all want to bet. "I am here for a vacation," she said, "and after a few days in New York to see what it is like, I am going to Palm Beach to get some sun and sea. I love it. I hate cold weather. # McCormick Sues To Keep Big Fund From Ex-Wife

Indianapolis, January 14.—Harold F. McCormick, father of Matilda O. McCormick, who married Max Oser, Swiss riding master, filed suit in federal court here today in the name of Anita Oser, 9-month-old daughter of Matilda Oser, to restrain the Oser Trust Company of New York from distributing the $1,000,000 trust fund created by John D. Rockefeller, from paying to Edith Rockefeller McCormick, mother of Matilda and divorced wife of Harold McCormick, 123,824 shares of stock in the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

The suit sets out that Edith McCormick released her right to the original trust fund of 12,000 shares January 19, 1918, and that since her portion is now 123,824 shares, this is the property of the child of her daughter, Matilda. This, the petition says, was stipulated by John D. Rockefeller.

The suit also asks that the trust be restrained from distributing a transfer of the stock from the trust fund to the name of Edith McCormick. The committee is composed of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., Cyrus H. McCormick, E. Parmelee Drexler, John D. Rockefeller, Willard Richardson of New York and Bertram Cutler of New Jersey. The Standard Oil Company of Indiana also will be restrained from making any transfer.

The 123,824 shares of stock, according to the petition, is worth $25 a share today at $64.24 a share. The trust fund was valued at 240,000 shares created for heirs of John D. Rockefeller, Sr.

The $25 a share valuation placed on the stock in the petition is the value it was pointed out by attorneys. The stock is quoted on the market here today at $64.24 a share. Edith Rockefeller McCormick is attempting to regain possession of the stock which it is alleged rightfully belongs to her granddaughter.

WATCHES AND SUITS TAKEN BY BURGLARS

Two Atlanta homes were robbed Wednesday night and two watches and a quantity of clothing are listed as missing. The burglaries took place at 123 North Avenue, where the family were away, according to reports made to Detective Rogers and Mosley. H. T. Matney, of 173 Juniper street, reported that several suits were taken from his home. Entries were made through windows.

THE CITY CARS FORGOT

Washington, January 14.—The city of Atlanta, Ga., Thursday, January 15, 1925.

Both declared that the crime wave which now holds Atlanta by its grip is due largely to the fact that, with the present number of policemen, it is practically impossible to provide adequate protection and that at night many sections of the residence district are left almost unprotected because of the shortage of men in the department. The increased demand for traffic officers, to a large extent, responsible for conditions, Chief Jett stated.

The finance committee also was asked to consider the plan to install centrally located traffic towers to replace the present system. This would release many officers now on traffic duty for other assignments.

Chief Jett in making his request for a total of $651,833.43, asked that one probation officer be dropped, saving $1,200 per year.

Fire Chief W. B. Cody also presented his budget, which asked a total of $692,802.50 for necessary expenses during the year. He asked for one additional man, and requested salary raises for one mechanic and the superintendent of fire alarms.

Approximately $2,500,000 was asked for the construction department, including, in addition to operating expenses, money needed this year for new street, sewer and bridge projects.

A number of street projects were mapped out by Chief W. B. Cody and Councilman John A. White, chairman of the street committee of council, which called for new streets, almost $2,000,000 and included big improvements in every ward.

The value of railroads and their equipment as demonstrated largely from compilations of interstate commerce commission reports, was estimated at $19,950,800,000. The machinery, implements and tools of manufacturing industry were found to be worth $15,780,000,000, while the value of public utility property, including telegraph and telephone systems, electric light and power systems, street railways, canals and irrigation enterprises, was valued at $4,147,000,000.

Livestock on farms was valued at $5,807,104,000 and motor vehicles of all classes were said to be worth $4,174,407,000 or nearly a billion less than the figure given for agriculture products on hand at the same time which was $5,455,796,000. The commission also gave a list of values, coming down on the list of valuations, as follows: $4,278,155,000.

Wealth by States.

In listing the wealth by states, the bureau placed New York first, with a total of $27,005,000,000. Illinois $22,292,794,000; Ohio $18,552,520,000; California $18,000,859,000; Massachusetts $12,980,859,000; New Jersey $11,735,189,000; Michigan $11,404,861,000; and Iowa $10,511,682,000. All others fell below $10,000,000, with the smallest amount, $541,716,000.

Figures for the other states, not in order of amount, but listed in geographical groups, included: District of Columbia, $1,697,270,000; Virginia $1,801,570,000; West Virginia $1,677,919,000; North Carolina $1,434,100,000; South Carolina $1,404,355,000; Georgia $1,356,730,000; Florida $2,440,491,000; Kentucky $3,582,391,000; Tennessee $4,228,251,000; Alabama $3,002,045,000; Mississippi $2,900,000,000; Arkansas $2,800,000,000; Louisiana $3,416,800,000.

representative of the Amalgamated Street and Electric Railway Employees' union, thanked the federation for its action, saying that since the street railway union had made a bill not the officials of the union in 1916, that the workers had lived up to the responsibility involved in a promise given the officers of the company.

"You have done a splendid service to 1,200 men employed by this company, who are loyal members of your movement," said McGraw, in a speech to the great army of workers and other people in Atlanta who are looking to your body for action upon this that several suits were taken from his home. Entries were made through windows.

William Pollard pointed out the recent action of the street railway company in taking up its tracks between Atlanta and Marietta and the delegates to support his motion in a spirit of fairness to the company and to the public.

Calls Jitney "Unequal."

The jitney, said Mr. Pollard, is manifestly unequal in the task of serving the people and should not be permitted to operate in competition with the company that is prepared to furnish the kind of service Atlanta requires.

He said that there is no future for the jitney driver nor the jitney owner as compared with the street railway driver and the owner of the street cars. "If we are to displace the street cars with buses," said Mr. Pollard, "by all means let us do it under the auspices of the street railway company, which is the only body of the public and make for a responsible and an adequate service which the present jitney system manifestly cannot render."

ing $2,808,702.24 for operating expenses during the year, and $500,000 for new units for the Hoke Smith Junior High school and the Henry Grady Senior High school for boys.

School Deficit.

In addition, the board asked the committee for $810,455.79 to pay a deficit carried over from last year, bringing the total to $3,773,158.03, not including the $500,000 request for the two new schools.

While it is thought unlikely that the full amount will be given, the committee has promised to give 20 percent of the city's revenues for schools, in addition to the two items of $350,000 and $101,000. The department also will get more than $200,000 from the state school fund and other sources.

In addition to Sutton, Hancock and Gaines, W. C. Slate, M. D. Therrell and Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, all members of the board of education, urged that the request be granted, and laid special stress on the need of new units for the Henry W. Grady and Hoke Smith schools. Delegates from those schools also urged that appropriations be made for the new schools.

Police Department.

Chief of Police E. L. Jett and Councilman Ed H. Inman, chairman of the police committee, urged that $75,000 be given that department for additional officers to be added to the force to provide proper protection for the city.

Both declared that the crime wave which now holds Atlanta by its grip is due largely to the fact that, with the present number of policemen, it is practically impossible to provide adequate protection and that at night many sections of the residence district are left almost unprotected because of the shortage of men in the department. The Atlanta Constitution is conducting an active campaign against "gunning" and the general use of pistols by criminals. The movement inaugurated by The Constitution is bound to bring results for the good of the country and for the protection of many a peaceful citizen.

The pistol is the greatest menace to the public and practically every murder is caused by the use of this weapon. The danger is not only to the individual, but to the community as a whole. It is a menace to the peace and order of the state.

However, under the present laws of the state, the person carrying a weapon is not liable for the consequences of its use. It is a menace to the peace and order of the state.

He declared that every man in the organization must cooperate to the fullest extent in order to obtain that have hindered its successful operation in the past.

"If there is anything wrong with the peach, let's make it right," said Mr. Neisler. "The peach is our life to keep going, for the good of the industry. I am making sacrifices and must every man in the organization for the welfare of the association."

W. C. Bewley, general manager, was authorized to work out a market plan and submit it to the next meeting of the executive committee for approval.

A committee headed by R. A. Berckmans is working on a plan to standardize grades and pack.

Measure Is Introduced To Bar Discrimination Against Southern Ports

Senator Butler of Massachusetts Draws Bill Providing Competition With Other Cities.

Washington, January 14.—A bill proposing elimination of "port differentials" in rail rates favorable to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Norfolk and "ocean differentials" from south Atlantic ports was introduced today by Senator Butler, republican, Massachusetts.

In addition, the measure would grant permission to the Gulf steamship lines to meet the competition of steamship lines serving the north Atlantic ports and to declare unlawful any arrangement restricting such competition.

Declaring that the "port differentials" are the result of a compromise made between the railroads following a long series of rate wars, Senator Butler said the flow of the nation's commerce is a matter of national concern and should not be determined by individual railroads "selfishly interested in obtaining the traffic or in favoring certain ports."

Hurts Shippers. "Congress should declare a policy that would forever put an end to the highly unsatisfactory condition now existing," he said. "The port differentials are particularly burdensome to the New England ports."

"From the expressed view of shippers in the west and middle west it is highly important that as many routes as possible be opened for the movement of the nation's export and import commerce. One of the unfortunate effects of the port differentials is to compel shippers to route their traffic through certain favored ports. This is injuring the New England ports, the south Atlantic ports and the Gulf ports, but it is also injuring the western shippers. Certain western trade associations have adopted resolutions in support of the equalization of the through charges via the several ports, which is one of the objects of this bill."

"The existing arrangement whereby rates from the south Atlantic ports are made higher than the rates from the north Atlantic ports is extremely unsatisfactory to southern ports and southern shippers," Senator Butler said. "And the present condition should not be permitted to continue. During the past year the director general of railroads endeavored to help the southern ports by according them the same rail rates as applied to New York and New England. It is to be hoped that this will give substantial relief because the southern ports were unfairly handicapped by the ocean differentials."

Southern Ports Hurt. "The ocean rates to and from the Gulf ports are on many commodities 15 cents per 100 pounds higher than from the north Atlantic. The steamship lines serving the Gulf would like to be free to meet the competition of the north Atlantic, but they are bound to a conference agreement between the so-called ocean conferences, which requires that the differential of 15 cents per 100 pounds be maintained from the Gulf ports. It is a tremendous handicap to the Gulf ports and practically excludes them from competing for much of the nation's export and import commerce. It is obvious in the public interest to have the free play of competition both in rates and in service, and any contract agreement or arrangement whereby the steamship lines serving the Gulf ports are prohibited from meeting the competition of the north Atlantic lines is contrary to the public interest. One of the objects of my bill is to declare any such arrangement unlawful."

CONGRESSMAN UPSHAW SPEAKS AT MERCER

Macon, Ga., January 14.—"Confidence must be reestablished among warring nations before there can be any reconstruction of international relationships, which is the only basis of international peace and prosperity," declared Congressman W. D. Upshaw, of Atlanta, Ga., speaking here this morning at Mercer university's founder day exercises. The university is today celebrating its 92nd anniversary.

The congressman declared that individual character, the unit in the vast national character, must be revived, purified and strengthened before the vital confidence among nations will be restored.

The basis of international construction has been for the present destroyed," he declared, "and the basis of a nation's faith is but the sum total of the faith and character of its individual citizens. 'Liberalism,' that state of mind which lays itself open to all new ideas, was scored by the speaker as the destroyer of faith in individuals. 'It refuses to allow any honest and reverent soul to believe anything definite,' he declared. 'Verily the faith that sings is the faith that clings to something as strong and as definite as the old rugged cross.' The highest and deepest loyalties of earth are never laid on the altar of any uncertainty."

Opportunity Brilliant. Mr. Upshaw declared that America's opportunity was a brilliant one. Redemption of the individual reputation in Europe is necessary before the character of Americans is such as to command the respect of Europeans and merit their confidence, he said.

In this connection, America's chief task, said the speaker, is "to rise in the majesty of our militant American manhood and womanhood and smash every effort made at home and abroad to trample our solid constitution and defy our stainless flag."

Congressman Upshaw delivered the main address of the founder's day program and was heard by nearly 1,000 students in addition to other visitors.

Would Bar Aliens. On the subject of immigration Congressman Upshaw said: "Our friends in foreign lands must not charge American restrictions on the question of immigration with being in any sense unfriendly to them. It means in the last analysis that we are their better friends because we wish first to digest the millions of aliens that we now have and help them to help us make America a fit place in which to welcome and develop the waiting millions that are eager to come to the land of the free and the home of the brave."

"I have in my possession hundreds of foreign, unpronounceable, un-American names, indicated in one southern city for violating our prohibition laws, defying our flag whose protection they invoked. I count myself all the more American and all the more humanitarian because I believe that such defiant aliens should be promptly sent back across the ocean and not allowed to set foot again on American soil for a hundred years."

In closing Mr. Upshaw admonished the Mercer students that "it is up to you stalwart evangelists of Christian truth to help give to America that vital, unselfish, Christian character which is the only basis of a civilization that will command the faith and the emulation of the fevered, restless nations beyond the seas. The only thing that will calm the fevered pulse, hold the restless steeds of passion, and stop the mouth of the cannon across national and international lines, is the faith that is born of character, the character that is born of God."

NATIONAL ARBORETUM AT CAPITAL IS URGED Washington, January 14.—A national arboretum near Washington was advocated today before the house agricultural committee, which started hearings on the bill to authorize expenditure of $300,000 for the purchase.

FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD FRIDAY FOR S. L. ROSSER

Funeral services for S. L. (Bass) Rosser, 50, of 13 Mobile avenue, former city detective, who died at a local hospital Wednesday morning, will be held from the chapel of Avtry & Lowndes at 10 o'clock Friday morning. Rev. W. F. Burdett, pastor of the Providence Baptist church, of Dunwoody, Ga., will officiate. Interment will be at Baptist churchyard cemetery at Dunwoody.

Mr. Rosser was connected with the city detective and police departments for 18 years, but for the past seven years had been a special agent of the American Railway Express company. He was a member of Fulton lodge, No. 210, F. and A. M., and lodge No. 78, R. P. O. E.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Frank J. Shipp and Mrs. E. O. Faulkner; three brothers, H. O. and Fred Rosser, of Atlanta, and Ed Rosser, of Bartow, Fla., and a grandson, Frank Shipp, Jr.

Missing Yacht Safe.

Bay St. Louis, Miss., January 14.—The missing yacht Alga, the object of a search by seaplanes, reached here today with all on board safe.

VICTIM OF BURNS TREATED AT GRADY AND RETURNS HOME

Mrs. E. W. Mayfield, 40, of 357 Capitol avenue, who was taken to Grady hospital Wednesday morning suffering from burns about the face and shoulders, was permitted to return to her home late in the afternoon. She was attempting to light the burner to her stove when the gas of a leaking connection became ignited and wrapped her in flames, she told hospital authorities. Her blazing clothing was extinguished by Mrs. W. C. Jenkins, a neighbor, who heard her screams.

ONLY 7 MORE DAYS TO WIN $1,000.00 IN CASH

The Atlanta Constitution's Cross Figure Puzzle

First Prize $1,000.00 in Cash

Second Prize, $500.00; Third Prize, $400.00; Fourth, $250.00— ALL CASH

A Grand Total of $2,570 in Cash Prizes .. 30 .. CASH PRIZES

Read The "PROBLEM," The "GENERAL RULES" and "THE PRIZE LIST," Then go to work on the Solution. IT MAY MEAN A VALUABLE CASH PRIZE TO YOU.

Nearly everyone is interested in cross-word puzzles, and working on them for fun and pastime. You can work on The Constitution's cross-figure puzzle for fun and profit. There are 30 cash prizes, ranging from $1,000.00, first prize, $500.00, second prize, $400.00, third prize, etc., on down to $10.00. Someone is going to win these prizes. Why not you? $1,000.00 is worth an effort. No one has a better chance than you if you get busy and put forth the proper effort.

PROBLEM

Draw three separate chains of circles horizontally (left to right) and three perpendicularly (top to bottom) through the puzzle chart, locating them so as to obtain the greatest difference you can between the sum total of the figures in the circles running horizontally and the sum total of those in the circles running perpendicularly.

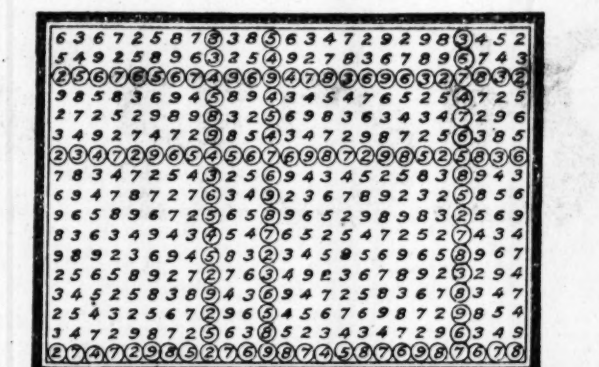

Allow at least two rows, or columns, of figures to intervene between any two chains running either horizontally or perpendicularly. You may allow as many more to intervene as you may find expedient.

The figures in the circles where the horizontal and perpendicular chains cross or come into contact are to be included in the total of either horizontal chains or the perpendicular chains, but not both.

There are nine points of contact, but no figure is to be included, but once. If all figures in horizontal chains are included, then none of the contact or crossed figures can be included in the perpendicular total, or vice versa.

You are not required to obtain the greatest possible difference that may exist between the two totals in this cross-figure puzzle. The prizes will be awarded to those submitting respectively the greatest difference without regard to whether any of them is the greatest possible difference or not. The greatest difference you can find, therefore, may win for you the first or some other prize.

The accompanying illustration demonstrates what is meant by a "chain of circles."

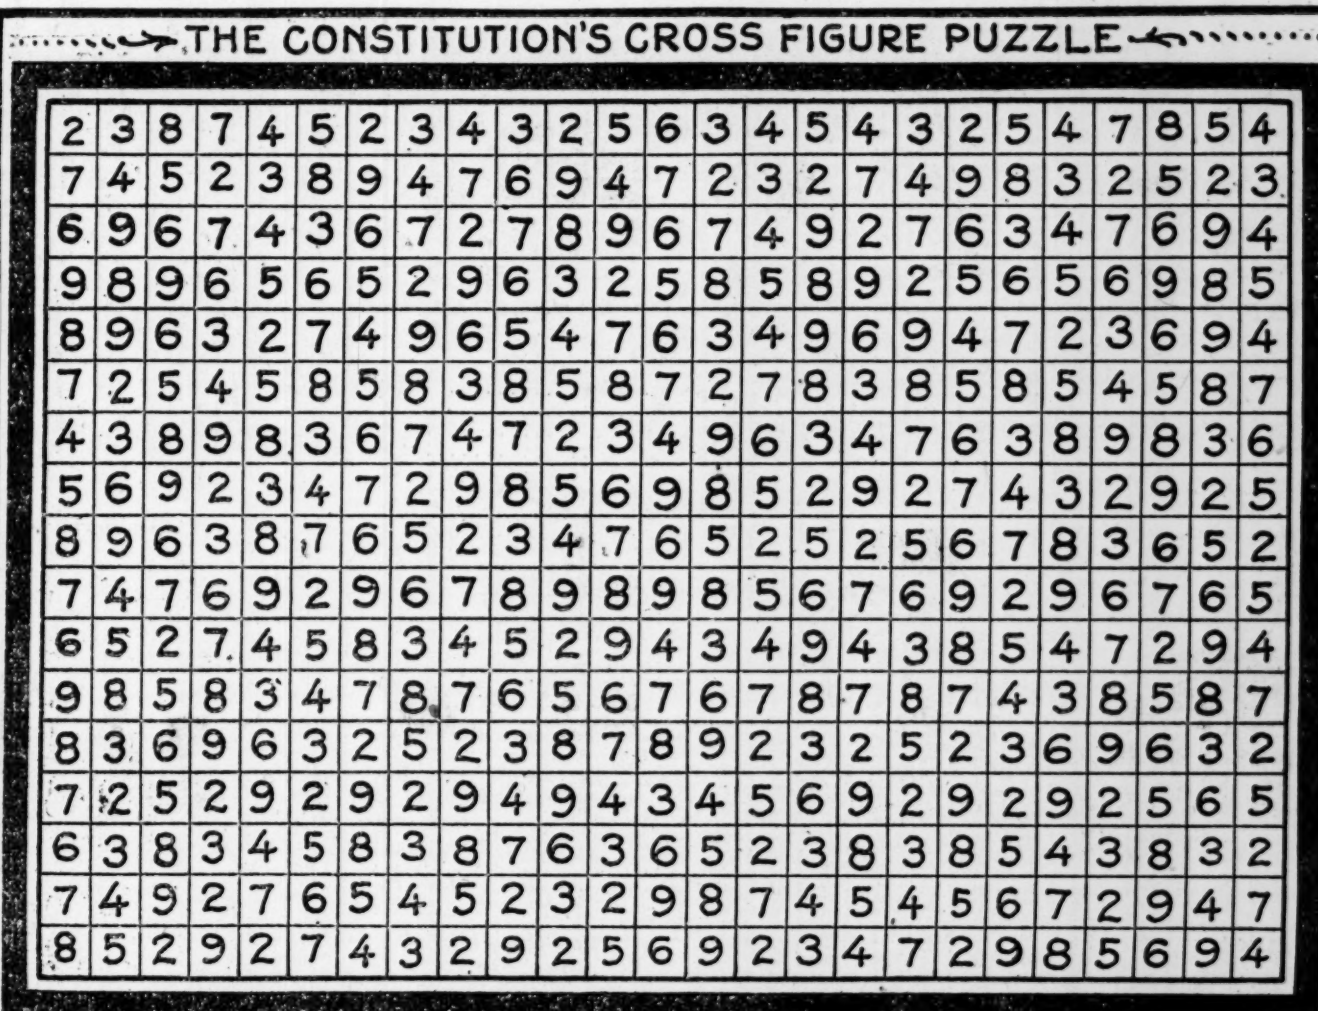

This illustrative chart contains the same number of figures as the cross-figure puzzle. Note there are three horizontal and three perpendicular chains. The total number of figures in the three horizontal chains is seventy-five and in the three vertical chains is seventy-five. If you include all figures in the horizontal chains, and from that total subtract the sum total of 42 figures in the perpendicular chains, you will have the sum total of 33 figures in the horizontal chains. If all the figures in the perpendicular chains are used, then from the sum total of 75 figures in the horizontal chains, subtract the sum total of 42 figures in the perpendicular chains, and you will have the sum total of 33 figures in the perpendicular chains. Use any rows of figures you wish in constructing your horizontal chains, and any columns of figures you wish in constructing your vertical chains. Note there are two columns of figures intervening between the first two perpendicular chains in the illustration. The chains in the illustration were drawn in at random and without regard as to whether the results might not have been obtained by locating them otherwise in the chart. This illustration, therefore, merely gives a general idea of what is to be done, but does not furnish a clue or key to what rows or columns of figures you can encircle in the puzzle chart to the best advantage. Mistakes in adding figures, or in subtracting the totals, will disqualify your answer.

When you have obtained the best solution you can find, insert in the subscription and solution blank the sum total of the figures in the horizontal chains, and directly under this the sum total of the figures in the perpendicular chains, and then the difference between the two. Attach this to the chart showing your six chains. This chart must accompany the blank in every instance. Otherwise it would not be possible to verify your work.

The best chart submitted in this contest will be reproduced in The Constitution immediately upon the close of the contest, so that all contestants can check their results with it.

GENERAL RULES OF THE CONTEST

- Only bona fide residents of Georgia and adjoining states, meaning Alabama, Florida, North and South Carolina, and Tennessee may take part in this contest. Employees of The Atlanta Constitution and immediate members of their families, and persons who won prizes in the elephant puzzle contest conducted by The Constitution, are barred from entering this puzzle contest.
- No solution will be accepted unless accompanied by a subscription payment of not less than three months. A contestant may submit as many solutions as desired, provided payment for not less than three months' subscription is made with each solution. A solution once received and recorded cannot be changed or withdrawn.
- Only one prize will be paid to any person, household, or group of persons working together. When in the judgment of the contest manager, two or more solutions have been copied or worked in collusion, such solutions may be rejected by him and the subscription money refunded.
- The Constitution is to decide any question which may arise that is not covered by the published rules, and those entering this contest agree to abide by its decisions and accept them as final and conclusive.
- All solutions must be mailed or delivered to The Constitution office on or before 9:00 P. M., Wednesday, January 21, 1925. Solutions sent by mail bearing postmark of that date will be accepted. This contest extends from Sunday, December 7, 1924, to and including Wednesday, January 21, 1925.
- In case of ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are people tied before any prizes are awarded for less correct solutions; and another puzzle will be submitted to those tied. That is, if two or more people should tie on the best solution, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for them, and they will be awarded in the order of the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle.
- In the event of ties for any prize, or prizes, a second puzzle of the same type as this cross figure puzzle will be presented to those tied to solve. However, instead of single figures the numbers will consist of double figures such as 15, 24, 36, etc., and the problem will be to construct a chain of circles across the chart so as to obtain the greatest difference between the sum total of the even and sum total of the odd figures within the circles. If necessary to dispose of further ties, this puzzle will be presented for as many as five additional times under slightly changed conditions and rules, after which, should any tie occur, each contestant will receive the full value of whatever prize he wins.
- The contest is open to both old and new subscribers alike. The regular subscription rate of $2.50 for three months, $5.00 for six months, $9.50 for twelve months to the daily and Sunday Constitution will prevail. Daily only subscriptions will not be accepted in this contest. Full amount of subscription must be remitted in every instance. When sent through an agent, no commission can be deducted.
- A person who is now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution, and paying a carrier or agent by the week or month may send or bring direct to The Constitution a subscription for the length of time desired, and the subscription will be extended for the length of time paid for from present paid date of expiration. The contestant can have solution credited in his or her name, and paper sent to some other party. Two six-months' subscriptions at $5.00 each are equal to one yearly subscription at $9.50. Two three-months' subscriptions at $2.50 each, total remittance $10.00, are equal to one yearly or two six-months' subscriptions.

CLOSING DATE

The Cross-Figure Puzzle Contest will close at 9:00 P. M., Wednesday, January 21, 1925. The earlier you send in your solution the longer time you will have to go over your figures and send in another solution if you find you can do better. Additional charts may be secured at any time by calling at the address below or sending a self-addressed stamped envelope for mailing them. NO SOLUTION CAN BE CHANGED AFTER IT HAS BEEN ONCE REGISTERED.

IMPORTANT FACTS TO REMEMBER

While the amount you pay with the solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning a prize, it does affect the amount you will receive, should you win one of the first nine prizes, as the value of these prizes is determined by what the winner pays. This is explained in the prize list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution. Remember that the subscription and solution blank must not be separated from the cross figure chart. The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning a prize. Accuracy is what counts. No more than one prize will be awarded to any one person. If you desire extra puzzles free by mail, be sure to inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. Address Contest Manager, The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

THE PRIZE LIST

Note.—The value of the first nine prizes depends on how much you pay on your subscription with your solution of the puzzle. The amount paid will be applied to Daily and Sunday. Daily only subscription payments will not be accepted in this contest. Tri-Weekly subscriptions not accepted.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Hollows in Cheeks and Neck Growing Deeper Every Week

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick

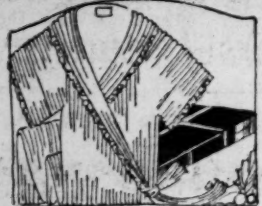

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women, too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong. All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, which are the most powerful and effective of all diet pills. They are the only diet pills that will give you your money back—and only 60 cents for 60 tablets. Ask Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., or any live pharmacist anywhere.

But be sure to get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—a very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.—(adv.)

Women Need Swamp-Root

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—(adv.)

Mrs. Lee Suffered From All These Troubles, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well

Terre Haute, Indiana.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time and dizzy, had no appetite and could not sleep. I tried different medicines for a year but they did not help me. Then my husband saw the ad. for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had me take it.

In the newspapers and had me take it. I regained my strength and never felt better in my life. It completely restored me to health. I had practically no suffering when my baby boy was born and he is very strong and healthy. I know that the Vegetable Compound is the best medicine a woman can take before and after child birth for health and strength. I would be willing to answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. W. J. Lee, Route E, Box 648, Terre Haute, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all these troubles.

For sale by druggists everywhere.

Executive Secretary
Of Atlanta Camp Fire

Photograph by Thurston Hatcher.

Miss Louise Hollands, formerly of Hornell, N. Y., who has recently come to Atlanta to work as the executive secretary of the Atlanta Camp Fire.

Miss Louise Hollands, of Hornell, N. Y., recently appointed executive secretary of the Atlanta Camp Fire, comes to Atlanta most highly recommended by the Camp Fire national headquarters in New York city. She has had a wide and varied experience in girls' work, having worked with the Y. W. C. A. in Trenton, N. J., and in Pottsville, Pa. In both of these places she worked with the Girl Reserves. Miss Hollands has been an associate of the Girls' Friendly society in Hornell and during the past year has been the executive secretary of the Camp Fire Girls in that city.

Miss Hollands has been counselor, recreation leader and director of various summer camps, and has had experience at Camp Altamont in the Helderberg mountains of New York state; has directed the Trenton, N. J., camp for the Y. W. C. A. and last summer organized and directed a large camp for the Camp Fire Girls of Hornell, N. Y.

Miss Hollands attended the National Camp Fire conference in Kansas City in 1924. There she made a splendid showing of the work she had accomplished. She received her A. E. and B. M. from Elmira college, which is one of the oldest and best-known colleges for women in the country.

The Guardians' association welcomed Miss Hollands with an informal tea on Tuesday, January 13. The Camp Fire Girls of Atlanta will meet Miss Hollands at the indoor picnic on Saturday, January 17, which picnic is one of the three together that the Camp Fire Girls have each year. This one has aroused unusual interest because at this time the Health Trail will be started and copies of the requirements will be given out. The Health Trail will extend over a period of five months. The group making the highest average on 10 points of the Health Trail will be awarded a week at camp free. Miss Hollands will speak to the girls on Camp Fire health habits. In the afternoon each group will present a stunt and the group with the best stunt will receive a Camp Fire Count Book.

Some of the music heard in this benefit performance has never been heard in Atlanta, having been brought straight from New York. A special number is a song from one of the newest musical comedies now running on Broadway. The music was brought to the director, Miss Anderson, from New York for the particular occasion, and is both beautiful and tuneful. Other songs used are familiar to the Atlanta public, and are exceedingly appropriate to the nature of the chorus. About twelve girls take part in the chorus, and the three solo numbers varying the general plan.

Tickets may be obtained from Miss Anderson by calling Ivy 6999-W, or from Mrs. Carl Fox, 75 North Moreland avenue, Ivy 6988-W, or from any member of the Service League of the Church of Our Savior. Tickets will be obtained also at the box office of the Palace theater on the evening of Friday, January 23. The price of admission is 25 cents.

Y. P. S. L. of Church
Of Our Savior Will Sponsor Musicales

Under the auspices of the Y. P. S. L. of the Church of Our Savior, a brilliant prologue will be presented at the Palace Theater in Inman Park, on the evening of Friday, January 23rd, supplementing the feature picture of the evening.

Through the courtesy of the manager, Mr. Fowler, Miss Lenora Anderson will present at this time a medley of the latest song hits, with a chorus of beautiful girls taking part, dancing, singing and attractive costumes all lending color to the occasion. All local talent has been utilized, and the girls taking part are all residents of Inman Park. A certain per cent of the proceeds will go to the Y. P. S. L. of the Church of Our Savior.

This is not the first time that a group of Inman Park girls have staged a musical show. The other occasion while great successes, were not as elaborate nor as professionally presented as the musical medley which will be the feature of the evening at the Palace theater January 23. There will be two performances, at 7:30 and 9 in the evening. The prologue is not connected with the picture that evening, but is a separate feature of entertainment, although there will be no extra charge made.

"King of Jazz"
Reaches Atlanta
To Give Concert

Paul Whiteman, "king of jazz," will arrive in Atlanta today at the head of his 25 saxophonists, clarinetists, trap drummers and banjoists, all set for the concert to be given at the auditorium tonight.

Mr. Whiteman will go to the Biltmore hotel, where he is expected to be besieged by amateur musicians, each of whom has written the song hit of the decade, for the genial Paul had announced that he was looking for new melodies and would be glad to hear them hummed over.

The concert will begin at 8:15 o'clock and continue until nearly 11, but there will be no dancing. The Whiteman symphonies, Mr. Whiteman appears to be serenely indifferent to picking up sums which look like riches to the ordinary man. He turned down an offer of $1,000 for an hour or two of dance music after the concert.

The offer was telegraphed Mr. Whiteman by officers of the Capital City club, who offered $1,000 for music at the club from 11 o'clock until 1 o'clock. Mr. Whiteman wired back that as he had quoted the Debutantes' club a rate of $2,000 for those hours, which had not been accepted, he would think it discourteous to cut rates for another organization. So that's off!

The audience probably will be a huge one, but plenty of seats remained Wednesday night at the Phillips & Crew music store. The sale will continue there today until 6 o'clock, when it will be transferred to the auditorium box office.

U. S. AMBASSADOR TO SPAIN CLEARS
RIVERA REGIME

New York, January 14.—The American ambassador to Spain, Alexander P. Moore, of Pittsburgh, returned on the Mauritania today for a two months' leave after a year's service in Madrid.

He would not comment upon a rumor that his trip home might be in connection with a possible succession to the Paris post upon retirement of Mr. Herrick.

The ambassador took occasion to clarify what he termed a mistaken impression here of the dictatorship of General Rivera.

"The general is not an autocrat but merely the leader of a military dictatorship of 10 men who hold power similar to our cabinet. No one man can assume complete power."

He said there was no tension within the Spanish kingdom.

M'LEAN INAUGURATED IN NORTH CAROLINA

Raleigh, N. C., January 14.—Angus Wilton McLean, chairman of the United States War Finance Corporation under the Wilson administration, today was inaugurated governor of North Carolina. He succeeds Cameron Morrison.

All state officials chosen at the November election also took the oath of office.

"My Friends Wonder"

BELOW is a note of gratitude from a healthy energetic mother of five—an industrious house-keeper, who also delights in getting outdoors and helping her husband in the management of a western Kentucky farm. Mrs. Willie Hunt, who lives near Benton, Ky., says:

"My friends wonder at my strength, but I tell them that I have a fine helper in Cardui, which keeps me strong and well.

"When my first baby was expected, my mother told me of Cardui. I was ill and dragging around, not able to do anything, and had lost all my energy and enthusiasm. I did not care about anything.

"I took the medicine as she suggested and found it a wonderful help in restoring my normal good spirits. It put me on my feet in a short time, and I was able to go right on. I have had four children since that one, and before the birth of each one I have taken Cardui regularly. My children are all strong and healthy, and I feel sure their healthy little bodies are the result of my healthy condition before their births.

"For this I am especially grateful to Cardui, because I feel that my children are my greatest blessing, and their good health means more than anything in life to me. The baby is now 17 months old. I took Cardui before and after he was born. He is a fine, healthy boy that any mother would be proud of.

"My health is fine now. I am much stronger than most of the women I know."

Cardui is for sale at all druggists.

Afternoon Reception at West End Woman's Club for New Members

On Wednesday afternoon, January 14, the West End Woman's Club entertained at a formal reception honoring the new members of the club.

The club rooms, 305 Gordon street, were decorated with palms and ferns and tall vases of cut flowers. Overhead were large green and white bells, symbolic of the new year.

Prizes were awarded to three of the old members who had obtained most paid up new members: First prize, an angel food cake baked by the president of the club, Mrs. E. W. Brogdon, being awarded to Mrs. E. L. Helvin, vice chairman of membership committee; second prize, a bunch of artificial Paul Neyron roses made by Mrs. R. A. Eubanks, chairman of the garden committee, being awarded Mrs. Chester W. Johnson, chairman of the building committee; third prize, a Lady Baltimore cake, baked by Mrs. W. T. Mooney, first vice president of the club, being awarded to Mrs. H. H. Turner of the literary department.

Receiving with the president, Mrs. E. W. Brogdon, were Mrs. W. T. Mooney, first vice president; Mrs. C. W. Johnson, second vice president; Mrs. D. P. Murphy, recording secretary; Mrs. G. W. Barrow, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. George W. Grant, treasurer; Mrs. Sidney Smith, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. A. Grant Park O. E. S. To Hold Meeting.

Grant Park chapter, No. 178, O. E. S., will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening, January 15, at 8:30 o'clock in Grant Park Masonic temple, 132 Cherokee avenue. Visitors will receive a cordial welcome.

Joseph Brown P-T.A. To Hold Meeting.

The executive committee of the Joseph E. Brown Junior High Parent-Teacher association will hold a very important meeting at the school Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Every member of this committee is urged to attend and hear the plans outlined for the work of the new year.

Central Baptist Women's Meet.

The ladies of Central Baptist W. M. U. will hold a day of prayer today at the church. A delightful program has been provided. Mrs. O. L. Freeman will be one of the speakers and Mrs. C. W. King will talk.

Junior Music Club To Meet Saturday.

The chorus of the Junior Music Club, under the direction of Miss Ruth Weagand, will meet Saturday at 1:45 o'clock at St. Ann's hall. A full attendance is urged. New members will be welcomed. A few more soprano voices are needed.

Miss Ormes Talks At Meeting.

The lecture on "The History of Georgia," which was to have been delivered by Dr. James A. Leconte Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A., was postponed until a later date, owing to Dr. Leconte's unexpected absence from the city. However, Miss Irene Hedley Ormes gave a most interesting talk on the aims and purposes of the Y. W. C. A. and their international relations. Miss Ormes has been for 17 years connected with Y. W. C. A. work and is at present a secretary of the national board of the Y. W. C. A. in New York. Another interesting feature of the evening was the receipt of a package from Miss Dorothy Chambers from the Y. W. C. A. center at Stamboul, Turkey, which center is supported by the Atlanta association. This package contained parts of the present-day Turkish.

Ladies' Aid Will Serve Lunch.

The ladies' aid of St. Philip's cathedral will serve lunch at the restaurant, 112 East Hunter street, either scalloped oysters or roast beef, French fried potatoes, celery, hot biscuits, tea or coffee, with fruit salad, for 25 cents. Miss Abigail Stockbridge, chairman.

French Alliance To Meet Today.

A meeting of the French alliance will be held today at 3:30 o'clock at the Billmore hotel. An interesting program has been arranged by the program committee. Charles Loridan, president, will speak of the festivities that mark the celebration of Christmas in France and of old customs that are still observed in different provinces on that occasion.

Mrs. R. E. Douglas will speak of Alfred de Vigny, poet, dramatist and novelist of the 19th century. Mrs. Douglas will recite and read several of the best selections from that French author.

Miss Mela Wellborn will entertain with several French folk songs.

An invitation is extended to all who speak French and are interested in French literature.

Good Will Center Meet.

The board of managers of the Kate P. Dwyer Good Will center will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday, January 16, at 3 o'clock at 60 Stewart avenue.

Randolph-Macon Club To Meet.

It will be of interest to the members of the Randolph-Macon club to know that Mrs. Owen C. McConnell will entertain the club Friday afternoon, January 16, at 3 o'clock at her home, 106 Penn avenue. The program will consist of a review of "A Little French Girl" by Mrs. George Lester. Mrs. William Holloway, of Nashville, Tenn., who is a sister of Mrs. McConnell, will be the honor guest of the club. It is very much desired that all the Randolph-Macon alumnae in Atlanta be present at this meeting.

Dr. Loveridge Will Give Lecture.

Dr. Blanche Grosbeck Loveridge announces the opening of a new series of psychological lectures on the subject, "Jesus, the God-man," in the ball room of the Henry Grady hotel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Included in this series will be studies of "the historical Jesus," "the ethical Jesus," "the mystical Jesus," "the mythical Jesus," and other discussions pertaining to and illuminating the personality, life work and character of Jesus, the Christ. The public is invited freely to attend.

Freezing Sunday's lecture Mrs. Clifford Stodghill will present an attractive musical program.

Guest To Be Honored At Agnes Lee House.

Agnes Lee chapter, U. D. C., and the Barons DeKalb chapter of the D. A. R. in Decatur will entertain on Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Agnes Lee chapter house on Avery street at a beautiful reception in honor of Mrs. Samuel Prescott Davis, president general of the United States Daughters of 1812 and Mrs. Clarence J. Chandler, third vice president of that organization.

Mrs. Davis and Mr. Chandler are the distinguished guests for the week end of Miss Marianne McClelland of Decatur, who will entertain for them quite informally at dinner Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

Officers of the Atlanta chapters of the U. D. C. those of the D. A. R. and of the John Floyd chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will assist Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, president of Agnes Lee, and Mrs. Frank Armstrong, president of the DeKalb chapter.

All members of Agnes Lee and DeKalb and their husbands and escorts are heartily urged to be present.

Mrs. Charles E. Bothwell with her committee will assist Mrs. Stevenson in the entertainment of the visitors.

OFFICERS OF 1812 TO BE HONORED

Mrs. Douglas Hills and Mrs. Arthur Gregory will give the beautiful luncheon at which Mrs. Claude Frederick entertained on Wednesday at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Lovely spring flowers arranged in a bowl graced the center of the luncheon table, where covers were placed for Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. Hills, Mrs. Gregory, Mrs. William Lohmeyer, Mrs. Omar F. Elder and Mrs. Fred Rogers.

Mrs. Ted Connor Honors Mrs. Galley.

Marietta, Ga., January 14.—Prominent among the pre-nuptial affairs being accorded Miss Ruth Eleanor Galley, whose marriage this month to John William Vaughn, of Pikeville, Tenn., is entering the social interest in Marietta, was the bridge party given on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Ted Connor, at her home on Church street.

Miss Marjorie Telford, of Dalton, who is Mrs. Connor's house guest, also shared in the honors of the occasion.

Baskets of white carnations and narcissi combined with hothouse smilax and fern were used throughout the reception.

The dining table was laid with lace mats and lighted by white tapers in silver candelabra presented an attractive miniature bridal scene. Suspended from above was a snowy white wedding bell showered with valley lilies.

Miss Galley was presented hand-embroidered linen. Miss Taff was given a dainty compact. The prizes were bridge novelties.

The guests included Miss Galley, Miss Taff, Mrs. S. A. Connor, Mrs. Malcolm Whitlock, Miss Louie Dean Stephens, Miss Emmie Montgomery, Miss Henriette Leake, Mrs. William McEachern, Mrs. Charlie Tillman, Mrs. Welborn Venable, Miss Pearl Roberts, Miss Gladys Teem, Miss Elizabeth Stephens, Miss Margaret McNeil, Miss Nancy Morris, Mrs. M. C. Jones, of Atlanta; Miss Virginia Roston, Mrs. Hugh Blair, Mrs. W. L. Harris, Mrs. Edward Grove, Mrs. Jarrell Black, Mrs. W. M. Murray, Miss Charlotte Law, Miss Mary Schilling and Miss Katherine Smith, of Macon.

Special Features at Children's Matinee.

Exemplifying to the greatest degree its educational value to the children of the community, the Atlanta better films committee will present on Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Howard theater matinee a remarkable program celebrating Lee's birthday, which occurs within a few days.

Mrs. Newton C. Wing, matinee chairman, has secured "Dixie," the cross section in which the life of General Lee is the leading character, and the drawing card attracting thousands to the Howard on Saturday.

The play is the fourth of "The Chronicles of America" produced by the Yale University Press, which is at present showing the most authoritative presentations of American life, of great expense and with absolute historical accuracy. "Dixie" has never been seen in Atlanta, and was filmed in the south, and under the jurisdiction of southerners. Its locations are scenes that have survived and remain as they were in the days of the civil war. A number of the views were taken at the Hermitage, near Savannah, where are shown negro streets attached to an old plantation, and also at the famous Rutledge home in South Carolina. The theme of the entire picture is the heroic part played by the women and children of the Confederacy.

In connection with the picture of Lee, films showing the carving and unveiling of Lee's head, at Stone Mountain, will be seen. This is loaned by the Stone Mountain memorial association, whose officers will be seated in a special box, as will the officers of the Atlanta U. D. C., headed by Mrs. John A. Perdue.

Especially invited are the children belonging to the "Children's Founders' Roll of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial," who are asked to wear their best.

In addition to the Lee picture, one of the most popular of the Jackie Coogan pictures will be shown: "Dad," a combination of pathos and humor rarely equaled. Miss Nell Enloe, prolog chairman, presents an interesting feature in connection with Lee's birthday. Mrs. W. L. McCall, Jr., chairman, chairman, will have as assistants, Mrs. T. H. Thomson, P. T. A. representative from Edgewood Avenue school, and Mrs. Thompson, of Fulton High.

REFUSES TO RATIFY CHILD LABOR BILL

Columbia, S. C., January 14.—The proposed twentieth amendment to the constitution, relative to child labor, was rejected by the legislature of South Carolina today. First the senate and then in a short time the house adopted a resolution refusing to ratify the amendment. In each case the vote was unanimous.

PENDING IN FOURTEEN MIDWESTERN STATES.

Chicago, January 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Action on the child labor amendment to the federal constitution by the legislature of fourteen midwestern states before March was the prospect reported from various state capitols today. Five states have already acted, before the other half dozen others are expected to be taken within the next fortnight whether they favor enactment of the amendment or not.

Discussions of possible referendums on the proposal were reported from Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, the governors of the last two states having recommended its submission to the voters. A referendum in Massachusetts disapproved the amendment.

The proposed amendment is pending before North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska and Missouri legislatures.

Arkansas was the first state to ratify and North Carolina, Georgia and Massachusetts have rejected the proposed amendment.

Whether the South Dakota legislature would authorize a referendum was uncertain, with some prospects that action might be delayed. In Minnesota a proposed amendment is in committee and the Nebraska state senate has referred the proposal to Governor McCall for recommendation.

Oklahoma is apparently on the fence at the moment but expected to topple momentarily.

CALIFORNIA TAKES FAVORABLE ACTION.

San Francisco, January 14.—One far western state, California, has voted in favor of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution and ten others are considering it.

The amendment was transmitted to the Washington senate Monday with a recommendation by Governor Hart and it was placed on file for assignment to committee. The measure is before the Oregon legislature and in a poll of the lower branch the Oregon legislature showed 28 against ratification, 14 for and three doubtful.

Early action is anticipated in both Utah and Idaho. The Nevada legislature will meet Monday and it will have on file petitions from labor and clubwomen's organizations favoring ratification and opposing petitions from farm bureaus.

The status of the child labor amendment in other western states follows: Colorado: Senate bill urges ratification. Wyoming: Indications are toward defeat. New Mexico: Governor urges ratification. Arizona: Passed both houses in the first reading. Montana: In hands of the labor committee, with ratification believed favorable.

ACTION DELAYED IN EASTERN STATES.

New York, January 14.—An early decision by eastern states on the federal child labor amendment is not generally expected. Although legislatures in the upper New England group are expected to dispose of the amendment at forthcoming sessions, it has not yet gone into official channels of state farther down the seaboard.

In New York and New Jersey a referendum on the amendment has been proposed by governors, and if held would only be preliminary to legislative action.

Connecticut has heard nothing official on the subject except that the governor's office has received from Washington the customary notices relating to the amendment. In Massachusetts the amendment was decisively rejected in referendum last November, but the vote does not bind the legislature. In Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Rhode Island the amendment comes up at present legislative sessions.

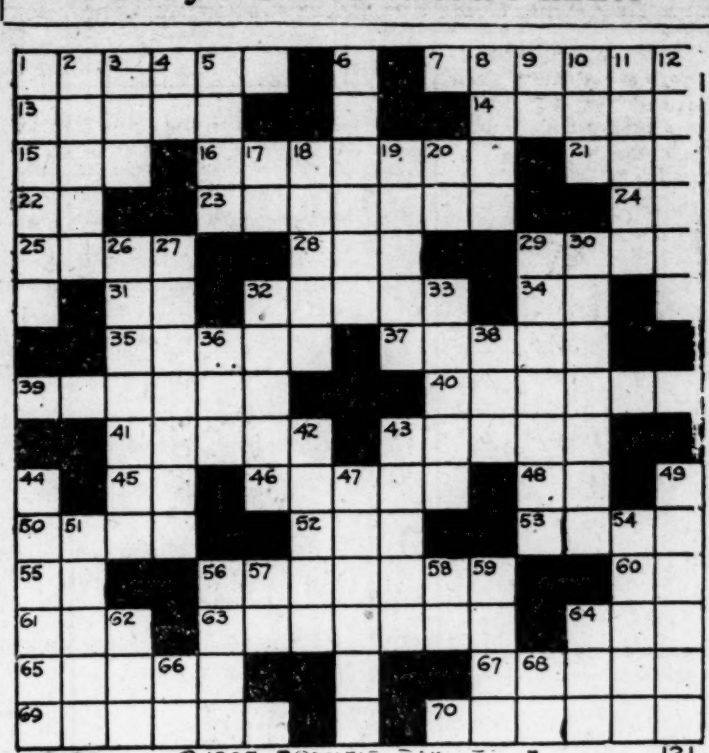

The governor of Pennsylvania sent the amendment to the state senate last week, where it will be referred to committee when the legislature is organized next week. When the Delaware legislature will take up the question has not been decided, but Maryland's legislators will act upon it at the next session in 1927.

When West Virginia's legislature assembles, the governor will submit the amendment to the legislature today with no recommendation as to action to be taken or when.

A revival of shipbuilding in Italy is predicted.

HOW TO SOLVE CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

The numbered squares are the starting points for words extending horizontally or vertically or both: One letter to a square. Words end at first black square encountered or border of puzzle. Pick out a word that fits a given definition and space. This gives you a clue to other words that cross it, and they in turn to still other words.

THE CONSTITUTION'S PATTERNS

A PLEASING FROCK FOR MOTHER'S FROCK

4999. Plaid woolen with flannel in a contrasting shade will be good for this design. It is also attractive in velvet, or taffeta, and very good for wash materials. The sleeve may be finished in wrist length, or short as in the small view.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. To make the dress as illustrated in the large view, requires 3 3/8 yards of plaid material 27 inches wide and 4 yard of plain for a 10-year size. If made with short sleeves 1 1/4 yard less of the plaid material is required.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our LATEST FASHION BOOK OF FASHIONS.

In ordering patterns write name and address plainly on a sheet of paper. Order by number and include price in silver or stamps. Do not mail letter to The Constitution building in Atlanta, but address as follows: Fashion Department, The Constitution, 1188-S9 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

MRS. CROKER PLANS THREE MEMORIALS TO LATE HUSBAND

West Palm Beach, January 14.—Mrs. Bula Croker announced today at her winter home in Palm Beach that she plans to spend half of the many millions left her by her late husband, Richard Croker, for three memorials in his honor.

The memorials are to be erected in New York city, Ireland and in Palm Beach, the three places in which Mr. Croker spent most of his life. The memorials will not be started until the litigation involving the Croker fortune is ended, Mrs. Croker said.

To perpetuate the memory of Mr. Croker, his widow plans to build a museum in Central Park, a library in Palm Beach and to turn over the Croker estate in Ireland to the Sisters of Charity. The museum would house all of the paintings and art works collected by Mr. Croker.

Miss Bunce Gives Lecture At Rich's on Fine Linens

Miss Lelia Bunce, recognized authority on linens, Wednesday delivered the first of a series of four lectures on the history, manufacture and proper use and care of linens at M. Rich & Brothers company. Miss Anne Stephenson, head of the educational department of Rich's, assisted in demonstrations which accompanied the lecture. The series is being held under the auspices of the Atlanta Better Homes committee, of which Mrs. Newton C. Wing is chairman.

The Rich store was host to more than 200 women at a tea-party following the lecture. Tables were spread showing the proper use of linens for card parties, dinner parties and formal and informal receptions.

The second lecture of the series will be held at Rich's Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and will show proper linens for beds on different occasions. The firm will furnish the linens and beds, and will have them all spread when guests arrive, it is announced.

A question box, conducted by Miss Bunce, brought to light a number of questions not covered in the lecture. She said that the question box would be made a regular feature of the lectures in order that those attending may get more information on subjects under discussion.

Miss Bunce described how flax is grown in Holland and Belgium. She told of the processes of manufacture and by using materials furnished by Rich's, showed the best grades and how to distinguish them from inferior qualities. Styles and different weaves were discussed also.

In addition to the annual Better Homes exhibits held by the committee, Mrs. Wing said that this educational feature had been added in order that the modern housewife may have the benefit of expert opinion in the selection of linens for their homes. This is a special added feature of the work of the committee and indications are that they will be graciously received by Atlanta housewives, judging from the response of those invited to the lecture Wednesday.

Admission to the tea-party was by invitation only, but several hundred attended the lecture. The public is invited to attend all lectures, and those attending one are urged by Mrs. Wing and members of her committee to attend all, because they all have an interdependent relation to each other. Many of those attending had blank books and made notes of salient points of the lecture.

Linens bearing the words "Linen T Hostess" were worn by Mrs. Wing and her reception committee. Members of the committee were Mrs. George Howson, president P. T. A. council; Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, state federation director for Georgia; Mrs. Arthur Hazard, treasurer Atlanta Better Homes committee; Mrs. J. H. Lorenz, secretary Atlanta Better Homes committee; Mrs. H. G. Hastings, president Fifth District Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Norman Sharp, president Atlanta Woman's club; Mrs. George Wright, president Atlanta Music club, and Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president City Federation of Women's clubs.

New Orleans Man Is Hiking Around Globe for His Health

39,310 MILES CLICKED OFF ON ARRIVAL HERE

BY LOY WARWICK, JR.

These fresh air, physical culture friends who brag about the miraculous result of the morning walk to the office don't know anything.

C. C. Franklin, of Birmingham, Ala., marched into Atlanta Wednesday morning, hitting on all ten buttons, just after finishing a little jaunt of 39,310 miles. Gosh!

He's walking around the world. He started from New Orleans in 1921 when long-faced doctors told him that his lungs would cease their necessary functioning within three months.

"Well, I have a burning desire to see the world before I die," Franklin told them, "and walking is healthy."

You couldn't hardly expect a drama to foot it around the world in three months, but Franklin just absolutely refused to die until he finished. He's still alive, and the exercise has proven so beneficial that he dares a graduate of any medical school to predict his demise.

When Franklin shook New Orleans dust off his feet, he stepped up the Atlantic coast. He went on to Quebec, and then to Alaska. All the while, he refused to ride a foot of the way, except when it became necessary for him to cross water, and then he did a lot of deck-promenading—just to keep his conscience clear, as it were.

He's been in British Columbia, down the Pacific coast, Chili, South America, Buenos Aires, Cape Horn, and then back up the Atlantic coast again. He sailed to Vladivostok, Russia, and then to Siberia. He walked through Japan, India, Arabia, Turkey, around the Sahara desert, and goodness knows where else.

The point is, he's walked 39,310 miles. He's now headed for California, then Australia and then Africa. His travels have been sprinkled with incidents like being slammed in a dungeon by Russian cossacks, and having his guides and interpreters shot down in cold blood before his eyes. It's been an eventful trip, he says, and he likes it.

Franklin carries his livelihood by delivering talks on his travels. He will leave Atlanta this morning, headed west.

HARRY GOLDBERG TO MAKE SPEECH TO THEATER MEN

Harry D. Goldberg, former Atlanta theatrical man, now an executive assistant to Harold B. Franklin, director of theaters for the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, will lead a series of discussions on production and booking at the second annual convention of the theater division of the company at the Billmore hotel next week, it was announced Wednesday.

More than 250 division managers, theater managers and high officials of the company, including Jesse L. Lasky, vice president; Eugene Zukor, assistant to the president; Sidney I. Kent, general manager; J. E. Mansfield, of the home office; Walter Wanger, general manager of production; John Arthur, of the Famous Players Canadian corporation, and Claude Saunders, exploitation manager, will be present at the convention, which will open Monday morning at 9 o'clock and run through Friday.

Managers of Atlanta theaters affiliated with the Famous Players-Lasky corporation are Howard Price Kingsmore, of the Howard theater; W. T. Murray, of the Rialto theater, and Montague Salmon, of the Lyric.

Red Hair and Blue Sea

By Stanley R. Osborn.

BLUE RIBBON FICTION

SYNOPSIS.—Palmyra Tree, on board the yacht Rainbow, which is leaving the California coast for the South sea, is startled to see a sinister hand with a black mitt it thrust through her porthole window. Palmyra is loved by two men, John Thurston and Van Buren Rutter. She is not certain which she loves.

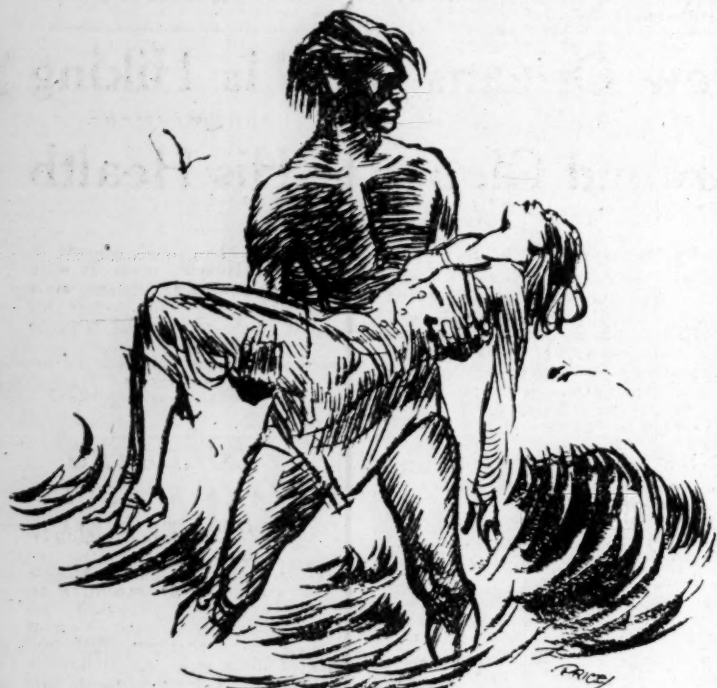

Palmyra determines to unearth the owner of that sinister hand. She discovers Ponape Burke, who confesses he is a smuggler of coolies. Burke permits her a glimpse of a strange brown man, Olive, hiding with him.

Palmyra gradually convinces herself she is in love with Van Buren Rutter. Burke and Olive leave the yacht at Honolulu, and Palmyra's engagement to Van Buren is announced. The yacht Rainbow is wrecked. The party lands on an uninhabited island. Burke appears on the Pigeon of Noah, and promises to rescue them. Palmyra goes on board alone to investigate, and finds herself a prisoner. Burke sails away with her, telling her that it was he who wrecked the Rainbow. Thurston and Van Buren start at dawn in vain pursuit. Burke grows ugly at Palmyra's refusal to listen to his loving, and leaves her alone on a deserted island with barely enough food to last until he shall return for her.

In the morning she sees Olive, the brown man, swimming toward her. Exhausted from a long swim, he falls asleep. When he awakens, he attempts sign language. Finally he communicates to her the idea that he and she are to swim away together in the limited sea. Making her a life preserver of coconut husks, they start their trip across the empty ocean. They rest at night on a barren beach. Palmyra manages to send a message for help, and again they start their ocean journey. Burke's ship is again seen in pursuit of them. By clever maneuvering, Olive eludes it. A ship is sighted at last. It is the Imperial Japanese gunboat with Thurston and Van Buren aboard and Commander Sakamoto in command. Olive's signals fail to reach the men in the gunboat and they pass on without observing the tragic pair in the canoe. Olive is caught by a clam, and death threatens him. He kills the clam and they sail on. Soon they see the Pigeon of Noah in close pursuit. Escape from Burke seems impossible, but Olive hurries a reef with marvelous skill.

INSTALLMENT XLVI.

OLIVE PADDLED FURIOUSLY TO GET FAR ENOUGH IN SO THAT THE BACKSWEEP

Here they weathered the next sea.

could not grip them, drag them down to destruction. Nearly he had succeeded. But the recoil, having drained the coral almost bare, the out-rigger struck a knob of the limestone, broke from the canoe.

Instantly the man leaped out, caught the girl up in his arms. He sprang upon a coral boulder that raised them above the sliding water. The canoe sucked back over the brink, but Olive held.

The moment the downrush ended, he raced with his burden, bounding over the rough coral, until he had reached another knob rising above the level, perhaps fifty feet in from the ledge. Here they weathered the sea and its subsequent retreat.

Another dash across the shallows, and they were safe from the ocean. But not as yet from Ponape Burke.

As the brown man carried Palmyra, her face, over his shoulder, was turned toward the Lupe-a-Noa. The girl saw that the schooner, beaten at last, had gone about and was working back out of danger. She saw that the white man had clambered part way up the rigging. And then she gave a warning cry as, from the shrouds, there flashed out a spurt of flame.

Instantly Olive, understanding, threw himself flat into the three-foot water. A bullet came cutting along the surface almost where they had stood. It raised a vertical film like the fin of a dolphin, which grew ever higher until it ended in a spindly jet where the bullet broke below.

Olive, leaping up, sprang with the girl behind another boulder in time to escape a second bullet.

Several shots Ponape Burke fired in his jealous rage, though now he had no target. Then, the Pigeon of Noah gaining way, drew off, and the pursuit, in this phase at any rate, was ended.

Briefly, the brown man watched to see if there would be another shot. Then he raised the girl once more and stood grinning after the enemy.

He had staked his life upon the skill of his empty hands. The mighty forces of nature, John Thurston and all the ship's company of the Rainbow, Commander Sakamoto and the Japanese navy, and now—for the time being at least—Ponape Burke and the deadly pistols. He had met them all, and he had won.

Proudly he stood, in this hour of triumph. Holding in his great arms the prize of victory, Olive-vay, South sea savage, threw back his head in one mighty shout of laughter.

Then, lifting the girl high, he breasted the deeper water of the boat channel next to the beach, and strutted up the sands.

Olive marched proudly up the sands, the girl in his arms a dead burden. Her great hour had come, but nature could do no more. Fatigue, emotion, these had had their way. Hardly could Gabriel's trumpet itself have roused her from the stupor into which she was sinking.

The rifle fire, as was to have been expected, had brought the villagers running from their thatches. Scarcely had the brown man emerged out of the sea than these Micronesians were swarming down. Excited voices filled the air. "Olee-vay—Olee-vay—Olee-vay!"

In countless numbers, as it seemed, they came. The crowded round, calling questions, uttering exclamations; they stood on tiptoe for a look, jumped up, their hands on one another's shoulders, for a glimpse of the strange burden.

Palmyra was aware of these things as a person is aware in fever: the real and the unreal; whimsically in and out, close and afar, silent or clashing with noise; a phantasmagoria of voices and faces—absurd, strange, terrifying.

So this, then, was where he could bring her; the home of his people, the place of his own abode. Through a thousand isles they two had stolen, furtive, whispering as the shadows of the night, that here now at last, where the great bird had flown on ahead to prepare the way, Olive should carry her in triumph up these sands; to have and to hold until death.

Upon the curving sweep of the beach there were houses. And, stranger of all, these were not only the brown thatches of the native, but—just as he'd seen them pictured—Japanese houses and the houses of tropical Christendom; wooden walled, perched upon cement pillars, roofed with galvanized corrugated iron, their water tanks behind them.

It was singular to find all this up in the bush where one would have looked for ferns and tinkling rills and the awesome silence of the forest primeval. Yet here were people moving about; brown men, yellow men, white men; the last in white clothing and white shoes, with white pith helmets pulled down over their noses to keep out the glare of the white sand. And here was even a white woman, who popped her head out a window like a cuckoo out of a clock.

And now, in the oddest way, all these people, at one and the same time, appeared to hear Olive's friends, to see Olive with his burden. The brown men threw down their baskets, the yellow men snapped shut their sun umbrellas, the white men whipped the helmets off their noses, to see. The woman popped back into her window and reappeared at the door. And then, as if at a signal, they all began to run.

But here it seemed as if night must again have come down. Yet, though the men had been running violently at dusk, the dark cleared from Palmyra's eyes to find them in the same spot the daylight had left them, poised, as one might think, on the very same foot.

She did not like having things so at such a time. Once more she shut her eyes wearily. She hid her face against the protecting shoulder, and the big salt tears made their slow way down the copper skin. But at last she had to give another look. And there, most astonishing of all, not five feet away and as real as life itself, stood John Thurston.

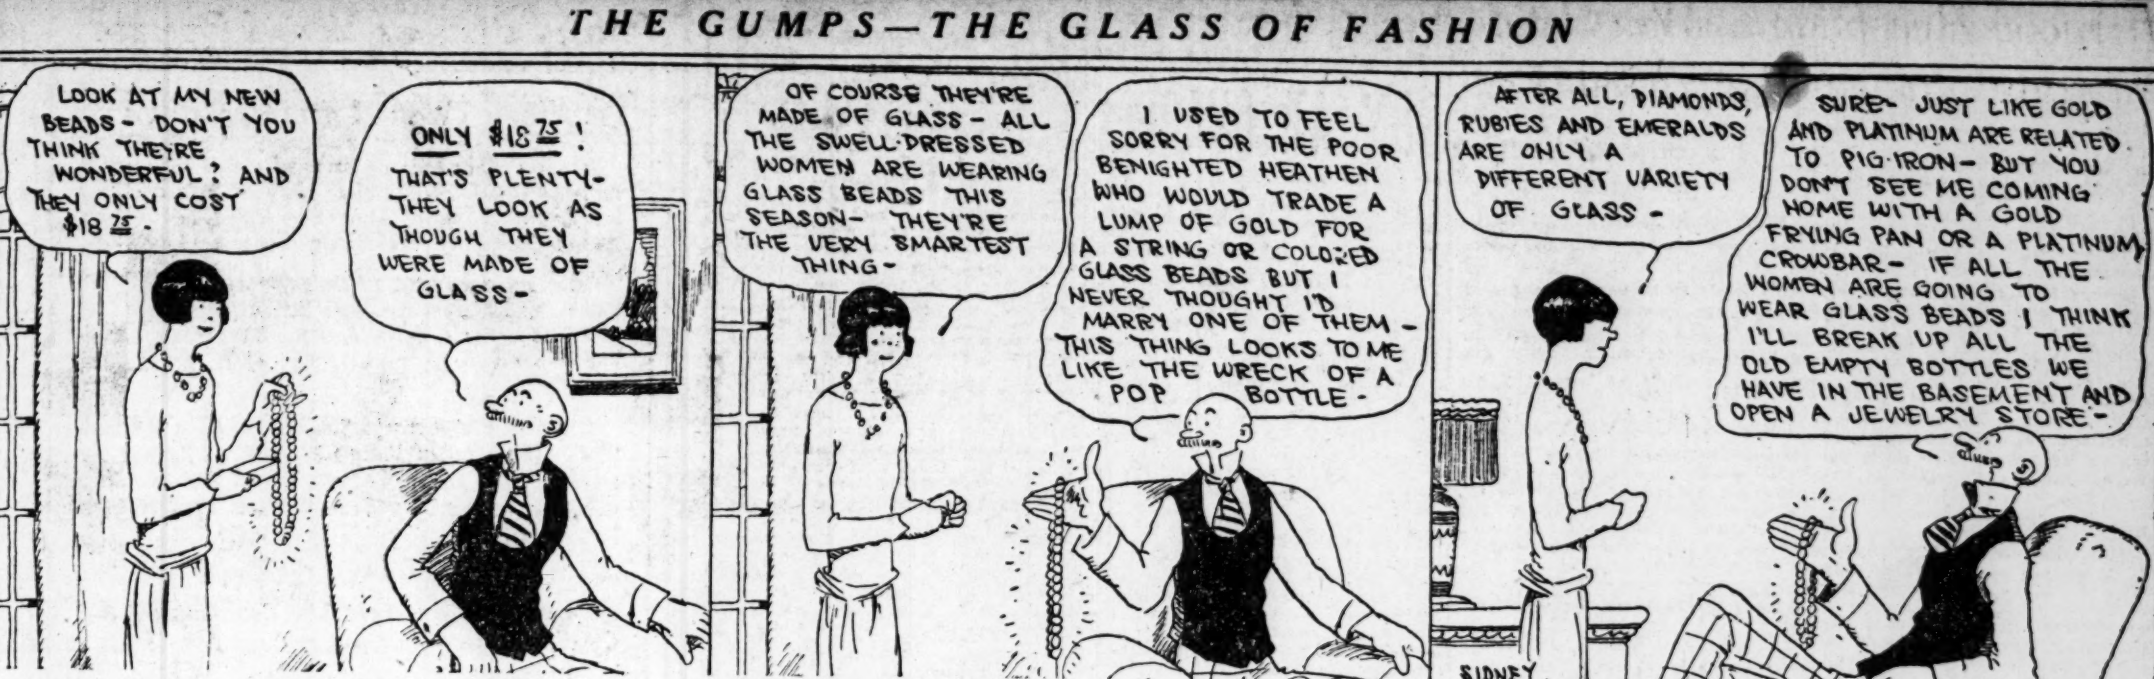

And he gazed at her sorrowfully and said in the strangest voice: "Palmyra! Tree! O, O, Palmyra!"

It was not until fifteen hours after the brown man had restored Miss Palmyra Tree to the world of living that she once more opened her eyes. Then, in a half waking fright, she reared herself up with a cry of "Olive!"

The next moment she found herself in her mother's arms.

When she roused again, several hours later, the Crawfords were at the bedside with her mother and father.

Palmyra sat up abruptly with the question: "Where have they got Ponape Burke?"

HOW TO WRITE JOKES.

Hearing Jokes.

Have your ears open continually for things that are funny. Many a joke travels from mouth to mouth but never sees the printed page. Frequently things are said in an offhand way that can be built up into a good joke. When you enter a store, for instance, you should listen to the requests made by customers. They are often comical. Note specially friends of yours who are naturally humorous, and jot down their clever remarks and work them up into jokes.

DEEP IN THE DIAMOND MINES.

By Dr. Walter E. Traprock.

Recent reports of a crime of violence committed against the husband of the owner of the ill-starred Hope Diamond recall an experience of my own with a jewel of great price which I shall never forget.

As a young man I was employed for two years in the famous Kimberly mines where I reached a position of such trust that I alone among the thousands of employees was allowed the use of the private or family entrance to the mines. This entrance, access to which was through the cellar of the Kimberly home, and the winding passages leading from it, were kept a profound secret. It was my knowledge of them that saved my life upon the occasion of which I speak.

I had entered the mine with the day shift. Penetrating to the lower levels I became aware that I was being followed by one of the superintendents whom I knew to be bitterly envious of my intimacy with the family. Even as I stood there, suspecting foul play, he and two henchmen sprang upon me, struck me to earth with a pick, dashed my miner's lamp against the side of the shaft and fled. An instant later a dull boom told me that the wreck had exploded a charge of dynamite in the passage, leaving me half dead, imprisoned in the terrible darkness.

With bleeding hands I claved at a mass of broken rock when suddenly, overturning a large fragment, the grave in which I was buried was suddenly flooded with light. It came from the most magnificent diamond I had ever seen, one of the rare type which needs no assistance from the polisher's wheel. With this to guide me, I was able to find my way back through the family entrance to the Kimberly's cellar. When I entered the cellar Mr. Kimberly, who was coming up the path, saw the glow of the diamond, thought the house was on fire, and turned in an alarm. Only by the quickest action were we able to hide the jewel before the firemen came and so avert the disaster which would surely have followed had the value of my find become known.

"Simon Called Peter."

(Coming to the Atlanta.)

The life that Peter Graham, English chaplain who goes to France with the idea of helping the wounded and crippled, finds himself in one which eating, drinking, smoking and kissing predominates—especially the latter. This is not a conventional play of the war, of the waving of flags and the sound of drums—only once does one realize that there is a war in progress when the grim hand of death reaches out and claims a young lieutenant who is out walking with his girl far back of the lines. It is in this air-raised that Peter finds that religion and God are more in the chants of the choir in his church at home than in the actual life here.

hind the lines. It is here, too, that Peter meets Julie—Julie for whom in the end he wants to give up his God and his church and his life. And what Julie does when Peter offers her all this is the keynote of "Simon Called Peter," which comes to the Atlanta theater on Monday night, January 19, when it begins an engagement of one week with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

"Their First Baby."

(At the Lyric.)

A plot that is unfolded so swiftly that it laughs down with new other, one wave of merriment starting in the orchestra before the last has subsided in the gallery, makes "Their First Baby" a laughing success at the Lyric theater this week. Two performances today, at 2:30 and 8:30, offer opportunity for hundreds of people to get stitches in their sides from over exercise of the diaphragm. It will make those hundreds of people happier than they have been since they laughed themselves hoarse at "Just Married." It is a further shock even than "Just Married," if you can fancy that Miss Edith Luckett, Lyric leading woman, was leading woman in the original New York production just last summer and is the most appealing young mother who ever dashed across the stage in frantic search for a missing child. The play is a straight farce, nothing serious, nothing that is not funny.

New Vaudeville.

(At Keith's Forsyth.)

The Forsyth will present the last three days of this week one of vaudeville's greatest attractions—the personal appearance of Jane and Catherine Lee, famous movie children, who are known to thousands through the cinema work and who have a delightful stage skit called "At the Studio." The engagement of Jane and Catherine Lee provides Forsyth patrons with the highest priced juvenile act in the world. The children are making a very brief tour in vaudeville before commencing work on a new studio contract in which they will be seen to better advantage than ever before. A number of other good acts and an orchestra of music will complete the bill.

Loew's Vaudeville.

(At Loew's Grand Theater.)

Teddy the wrestling bear is a great fun producer and with two real comedians who are seen in this unusual act, Loew's Grand offers one of the biggest hits of the year in the way of vaudeville entertainment. There is a laugh every minute in this act. The Hubert Kinney Revue, with a very pretty and most attractively gowned chorus of ten, presents a sensational dance series including the Italia and Argentine Tango. This is a very elaborate revue and most entertaining. Al H. Wilson is another feature of the bill and offers a conglomeration of novelties and witticisms. Two other splendid acts complete the vaudeville entertainment. Tom Mix, the popular screen star, and his famous horse Tony are starred in the feature photoplay "The Heart Buster."

Griffin, Ga., January 14.—(Special.)—That date will be reset next Saturday for the hanging of Willie Jones and Gerrie Bloodworth at Butler, E. H. Searey, Jr., who, following the announcement from Columbus that he had assumed jurisdiction of the Jones-Bloodworth case, said:

"I have just had a phone conversation with Solicitor General W. R. L. Murray of Columbus, and he assures me that he can be present at Butler, with Jones and Bloodworth, Saturday. I shall go to Butler, and the solicitor shall make a personal examination of the case, and it is shown that the gallows as at present erected insures privacy of hanging, the injunction will be dissolved and the gallows set for a new date will be set for the hanging."

"Sandra."

(At the Metropolitan.)

There is a typical Russian cabaret, designed after the famous Lavoski, of Petrograd, in "Sandra," Barbara La Marr's latest picture, which is now showing at the Metropolitan theater. The fantastic set will give lovers of architectural art many new ideas as to rooms of curved ceilings, bulging walls and terra cotta. Barbara La Marr is a beautiful offering, atmospheric of the picture and several other laughable short reels make the Howard's entertainment an enjoyable one.

"The Fast Worker."

(At the Rialto.)

Barbara Denny, seven-year-old daughter of Reginald Denny, has made her film debut. She made her first appearance before a motion picture camera at the Rialto theater, in "The Fast Worker," in which her daddy was co-starred with Laura La Plante. The picture is at the Rialto theater. A Telephone Girl comedy, "The Square Sox," Pathé News and several numbers are included on the Rialto program.

CONSIDER ORDINANCE UPON PASTEURIZATION

Provisions that, within 12 months, after passage of such an ordinance, all milk sold in Atlanta shall be pasteurized, with the exception of certified and grade A raw milk, are contained in a measure to be considered today at the first meeting of the 1925 ordinance committee of city council.

The measure was recommended by the city milk commission after hearing a report of Leslie C. Frank, milk sanitation expert of the United States public health department, and which pertained to milk conditions in Atlanta.

The bill is said to have endorsement of practically all Atlanta dairymen. It is a modified copy of milk pasteurization laws in effect in several neighboring cities.

The commission's recommendations stated that although Frank's report showed that the city would be receiving maximum protection if all milk were pasteurized, it is doubtful if such an ordinance would secure support of the dairymen, and it is deemed inexpedient, at the present time, to make all milk be pasteurized before delivered to consumers.

The ordinance probably will be approved by the committee today, but a bitter fight is expected in council, as several members already have expressed themselves against enforcement of any milk.

A number of other ordinances, including one to regulate the sale of pistols, in addition to a number of proposed changes in Atlanta's zoning laws, will come before the committee this afternoon.

NEW PARDON SALES

BARE IS CLAIM

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Topeka, Kan., January 14.—Investigations by state and county officers, seeking to throw light on the alleged illicit sale of pardons, have been continued today, but no formal charges have been filed other than the bribery proceedings started Monday against the former governor and his son.

The attorney-general's staff has turned over to the county attorney a collection of affidavits, which, in its investigations, and the two officers are cooperating in gathering evidence.

One of the angles under the searchlight is the case of John O. Johnson, convicted banker of Aulene, Kan., obtained his parole from Governor Davis shortly before Christmas. A member of the attorney-general's staff left Topeka today to look into reports that Johnson "bought his way" out of the penitentiary.

Affidavits charging that Ernest Bartholomew, of Wichita, was offered his release from prison for a consideration of $1250 were turned over to Ed Rooney, assistant county attorney, today. Bartholomew, who was the son of a wealthy furniture merchant of Wichita, was paroled January 9, the day after his father, according to the charges, provided the money.

Reports that the affidavit involved "democratic state officials" were denied by Attorney-General Griffith. He said no state official was named. It was asserted at the county attorney's office that D. C. Johnson, of Kansas City, former Kansas penitentiary guard, who was linked with the exposure of the alleged bribery of Governor Davis by Fred Pollman, had received the money from Bartholomew.

No Ouster Suit Filed.

Several affidavits are in the county attorney's possession, alleging that Carl J. Pearson, state bank commissioner, acted as an intermediary in a deal which contemplated securing clemency for Walter Grundy, Hutchinson, Kan., who was linked with the bribery of Governor Davis, is charged because of the exposure of the charges against the governor and Russell Davis.

No ouster proceedings have been filed against the bank commissioner. Mr. Griffith indicating that "other procedure" might be adopted. Pearson, at his own request, held a conference with Governor Paulen late this afternoon, but no statements were forthcoming from either official as they parted. Pearson a month ago had indicated his willingness to resign if Mr. Paulen wished, and today said his attitude was the same. His term expires April 1.

George Teems Charged

With Killing Brown
In Chattooga County

Summersville, Ga., January 14.—Exhumation of the body of Monte Brown, 25, of this county, on order of Judge Moses Wright has resulted in charges that he was killed by George Teems, at the latter's home, January 1. Search now is being made for Teems.

The autopsy revealed that Brown's skull had been fractured. Information given officers indicated that he was struck over the head with an iron kettle.

Agnes Scott Girl

And Tech Freshman
Wedded Secretly

Another tally was scored Saturday against the Georgia marriage law, it became known here Wednesday, when the secret marriage of a Georgia Tech student and an Agnes Scott sophomore was revealed.

Miss Theodora Hollingsworth, daughter of W. E. Hollingsworth, of Dawson, Ga., and John W. Duskus, of Montgomery, Ala., forsook the halls of their respective alma maters and eloped to Asheville, S. C., where they were married. They returned to Atlanta Sunday morning, and the bride spent Sunday night at the Georgian Terrace with her cousin, Mrs. Will Hinkle.

Monday both returned to school, and the bride began her mid-term examination, which lasted through Tuesday. Papers have not yet been graded yet, and so analytical psychologists are unable to determine what effect the romance had on the concentration of the former Miss Hollingsworth.

Tuesday Mrs. Duskus took J. R. McLean, president of Agnes Scott, into her confidence, with the result that Wednesday morning Mr. Hollingsworth, her father, Mrs. James M. Griggs, her grandmother, and Mr. Duskus, father of the young groom, were called to the home of the bride's parents. A general family union resulted and the couple received the paternal blessings.

Mrs. Duskus is a member of the S. A. E. fraternity at Tech. He and his bride left Atlanta Wednesday night for his home in Montgomery, where they will stay a few days prior to making their home in Florida.

Mrs. Duskus is the granddaughter of James M. Griggs, for many years a congressman from the third Georgia district. She was one of the most popular members of her class at Agnes Scott and has a wide circle of friends.

"We went to South Carolina to avoid posting the application for a marriage license, as required by the new Georgia marriage law," Mr. Duskus said. "We did not run away from our duties, but we wanted to avoid publicity beforehand."

ORDINANCE TO BAR

ALL CITY JITNEYS
TO BE INTRODUCED

Elimination of all jitneys in the city limits, and of all bus lines operating between Atlanta and nearby cities will be provided in an ordinance to be presented to city council Monday. It was reported Wednesday.

The measure would give council control of all bus lines, and allow them to operate only on permits issued by council. Proposed routes and other details would be required in applications, and council would have power to deny any applications.
